FALL REFUSES TO TESTIFY!

FORMER PRESIDENT FAST GROWING WEAKER; EXPECT END TO COME ANY TIME

Doctors Devote All of Their Efforts to Make Passing Easy As Possible; Patient Knows There Is No Hope of Recovery

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—Woodrow Wilson was clinging to life this afternoon by the slenderest of threads. His physicians are making his last hours as comfortable and as painless as possible by frequent injections of opiates.

Early this afternoon they admitted that their slightest hope of a turn for the better in the former president's condition has faded. He is growing steadily weaker; the tremendous vitality that enabled him to stand off death for four years is getting lower and lower.

"It's only a question of hours," they said, in reply to all questions.

Shortly before noon an official bulletin stated that Mr. Wilson had no pain and that the whole efforts of the physicians now are directed toward making him comfortable.

"Does that mean you are making his death as easy as possible?' was the blunt question asked of Dr. Grayson, his chief physician.

He hesitated.

"Yes," he said simply.

At 1:15 p. m. Dr. Grayson left the Wilson home for a short time, leaving Mrs. Wilson sitting by her husband's bedside.

Dr. Grayson summoned another consultation of physicians for 6 o'clock this evening, and said there would be an official bulletin probably about 8 p. m.

In Weak Condition

The former president was conscious at this hour, Dr. Grayson said, and seemed cognizant of movements of persons in the room, although he was so weak there was no attempt at conversation.

"His vitality is lowering slowly," said the physician.

At 11:30 a. m. a bulletin was issued on Ex-President Wilson's condition as follows:

"Mr. Wilson is growing steadily weaker. He has been able to take very little nourishment. He has had some sleep and has no pain. He recognizes those about him, but is too exhausted to talk. Our efforts in the main are directed toward keeping him comfortable.

It looks as though he may pull through the day," Dr. Grayson said. "But that, of course, is something no one can foretell. His condition might change in a moment."

Calm Resignation Makes Sorrow Exceedingly Keen

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—Woodrow Wilson was fighting a battle with death this morning and steadily losing ground.

With a courage and a spirit so indomitable that it challenged the admiration of the sorrowful little group about his bedside, the former president survived the long night.

Another conference of physicians was called at 10 o'clock. Consulting with Admiral Grayson were Dr. H. A. Fowler and Dr. Sterling Ruffin, both of whom were on duty at the Wilson home yesterday.

Every bulletin from the haggard and sleepless physicians, every word that came from the relatives who watched helplessly in the sick room, emphasized that the magnificent fight Mr. Wilson is putting up is a fruitless one.

Losing Ground

The following bulletin was issued by Admiral Grayson at 8:30 a. m.:

"Mr. Wilson had a fairly restful night but continues gradually to lose ground."

When he had given out the morning message, Dr. Grayson said:

"Mr. Wilson realizes the fight is over, but he is making a game last stand. It breaks me all up to see the struggle he is making.

"It is impossible to say how long he may last, but he is gradually ebbing away. The end may come at any moment."

Pupils of Three Grades to Change Rooms on Monday

Pupils of the tenth, eleventh and twelfth grades of Glendale Union High school will assemble Monday morning at 8 o'clock in the new plant on East Broadway, according to an official announcement by Principal George U. Moyse this morning.

The faculty will hurry them through the routine of a day's work in order that they may be acquainted with the new conditions, after which they will be dismissed for a half holiday.

Then the teaching forces will shift back to the old buildings on Harvard at Louise and at 1 p. m. call roll of all the freshmen, many of whom are entering school from the grammar grades this semester. These classes will be put through the routine and on Tuesday all will be in readiness for a resumption of regular work, it is stated.

UPPER CLASSMEN IN NEW QUARTERS

E. Broadway Plant Amazes High School Students By Its Vastness

By GIL A. COWAN
Of The Evening News Staff.

Glendale Union High school students are all on the qui vive today, if you get the idea. The three upper classmen are moving into the new plant on East Broadway—a "million-dollar" establishment which appears more like a fairyland to them for the present.

"This is my room," cried one little flapper in ecstasy, as she viewed the large classroom in which she will be enrolled.

"Yes, but I like this one better," said her companion, as they wandered through the halls of learning which will see school in keeping next Monday.

She was looking at the library, no doubt one of the finest appointed, considering the small investment in equipment, that is to be found in any educational institution.

Lots of Locker Room

"Which is my seat?" asked one of the boys this morning, as he glimpsed the auditorium where the 2200 pupils may congregate.

"Aw, they will put us in the gallery," was the reply of his locker mate in the old building. But for a fact, each and every one will have a regular place for books and cloaks henceforth in the hundreds of lockers which line the halls.

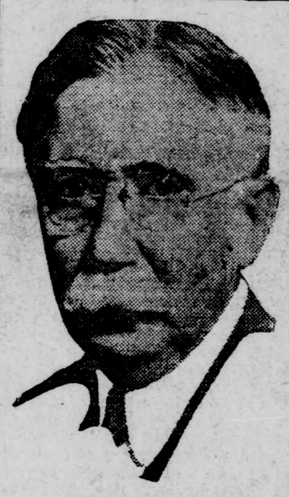
The young people who are making the move Monday began yesterday afternoon to inspect their new home—getting acquainted with the rooms, and there are a lot of them. One was found late last night lost in the maze of rooms around the executive offices.

It is quite a treat for this year's classmen to have the privilege of first using the great school which has been the fruition of years' planning on the part of the district, board and faculty.

One of the features to be enjoyed by the students who drive to school in their motor cars will be an auto park east of the Science unit. The boys also will be interested to know that the grading on the new athletic field is well in hand and will be ready for track meets and baseball. The bleachers, with the boys' training quarters beneath, are nearing completion, according to the superintendent employed by the architects.

Gaping holes where trees were removed on the Broadway side have been filled and the campus grounds are being prepared for seeding. While there are many details to be worked out, Principal George U. Moyse expresses satisfaction with the conditions under which the move is being made at the beginning of the semester.

Criminal Action May Follow Probe Of Fall's Actions in 'Teapot' Oil Lease



Edward L. Doheny

Archibald Roosevelt

Edward L. Doheny (second from right) testifying before the senate committee investigating the naval oil reserve leases, and (inset) Edward Beale McLean. Criminal action is expected to follow the inquiry of a senate committee into the leasing of the Teapot Dome oil field and other government properties by Albert Bacon Fall when secretary of interior. Edward L. Doheny, petroluem magnate, testified that he loaned Fall $100,000 without security or interest. Fall had stated previously that he borrowed the money from Edward Beale McLean, Washington and Cincinnati newspaper publisher. Mr. McLean did not confirm the statement. J. W. Zevely, counsel for Harry Sinclair, lessee of Teapot Dome, told of another $25,000 loan to Fall without security. These loans were made because of friendship, both Doheny and Zevely declared. The $100,000 loan was arranged that Fall might increase his holdings and get a water supply to aid him in the development of his other holdings.

The possibility of having the valuable oil leases in California he obtained from the government through A. B. Fall cancelled as a result of the senate investigation of the deals faces Edward L. Doheny, one of the biggest oil operators in the country. The probe of the California oil transactions followed the throwing of the spotlight on the leasing of the Teapot Dome naval oil reserve to Harry F. Sinclair by Fall.

With Harry Sinclair on his way ot Europe, Archie Roosevelt, son of the late president, has become the central figure in the senate investigation of the lease of the Teapot Dome naval oil reserve to Sinclair by A. B. Fall, when secretary of the interior. Archie told a senate committee the nature of the suspicions of "corruption" which led him to resign his position in the Sinclair Consolidated Oil corporation.

EX-OFFICIAL STANDS ON CONSTITUTIONAL RIGHTS AT OIL LEASING INQUIRY

Refuses to Answer Questions Upon Ground He Might Incriminate Himself; Also Attacks Committee's Authority

By KENNETH CLARK
For The International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—Declaring that he would stand on his constitutional rights not to take any steps that might incriminate him, former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall appeared before the Senate public lands committee today, but flatly refused to answer any questions bearing on the leasing of oil lands to E. L. Doheny or Harry Sinclair.

Three reasons were given by Fall for refusing to answer questions. These were:

One—Because the resolutions under which the committee is conducting its investigation were alleged to have expired at the end of the sixty-seventh Congress so that the present committee has no authority.

Two—Because the committee has no "authority," since it has been discharged through adoption of the Walsh resolution, and,

Three—Because, said Fall, "my answers may tend to incriminate me."

Fall challenged the right of the Senate committee to examine him concerning the $100,000 and $25,000 loans which he received from Doheny and Sinclair on the ground that the investigation had now been taken out of the hands of the Senate by the passage of the Walsh resolution authorizing President Coolidge to proceed in the courts to cancel the leases.

The appearance of the former secretary of the interior before the committee today was accomplished only after a special board of physicians reported that he was physically able to make the trip to the capitol and withstand the committee's cross-examination.

Hold Conference

Immediately after listening to Fall's refusal to testify, the committee ordered all persons out of the hearing room and went into an executive session to determine what course to pursue.

After a long consultation behind closed doors, the committee announced that the Senate would be asked on Monday to go through the formality of authorizing it to continue the investigation so as to meet Fall's objections.

On the basis of the belief that this authority would be granted without objection, another subpoena was issued ordering Fall to come back on Tuesday to testify.

Democrats in Panic

While Fall's appearance was the outstanding feature of the Teapot developments, Democratic ranks, in and out of Congress, were virtually thrown into a panic today as a result of the startling revelations of Doheny to the committee that he had at various times employed four members of the Wilson cabinet, Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo, Secretary of the Interior Lane, Attorney General Gregory and Secretary of War Garrison. Secretary McAdoo, Democratic candidate for the presidential nomination, is still in Doheny's employ, and has been paid $250,000 for services in the last four years, the oil man said.

Gregory's connection with Doheny has eliminated him as one of the special counesl to prosecute the government's oil case, it was strongly intimated at the White House. After a conference with the former attorney general, due in Washington this afternoon, President Coolidge was expected to announce withdrawal of his appointment. Much interest centered in the possible selection of a substitute for Gregory to act with Silas H. Strawn of Chicago as special counsel.

Success With Suit

J. Crawford Biggs, Raleigh, N. C., was prominently mentioned. He has been named assistant to Strawn and Gregory. In 1919 he handled the government's successful suit in recovering the Elk Hills naval reserve from the Southern Pacific. Brande is of the supreme court and Senator Walsh, Democrat, of Montana, who was chiefly responsible for the uncovering of lease scandals, also were said to be under consideration.

Seeking to get the navy's story of the leases, the House naval affairs committee continued its examination of high ranking naval officers. Rear Admiral J. K. Robison, said to be the originator of the navy's policy to exchange royality oil for harbor improvements and storage tanks, was the chief witness.

Tory Paper Derides Plea For Arbitration Suggested By Ambassador

LONDON, Feb. 2.—The Tory newspaper, Morning Post, today chided Frank B. Kellogg, the new American ambassador, for his speech before the Pilgrims society last night.

"The Puritans," said the Morning Post, "were not so much lovers of individual liberty as of their own opinions, and the tradition remains in the United States, if we may judge by the prohibition law."

The newspaper quietly derided Ambassador Kellogg's arbitration plea, saying that neither arbitration nor limitation of armament "could have stopped Germany."

League Plans Fight On Prohibition Act

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 2.—Whiskey at $1 a bottle and beer at 20 cents a quart would be sold by the United States government if plans announced here at the organization of the California branch of the Federal Dispensary Tax Reduction league are successful.

F. W. Buck, Denver, Colo., national secretary, presided at the meeting which resulted in the election of Secretary of State Frank C. Jordan as state chairman of the organization. Dr. C. Earle Clement, Oakland, was named secretary.

An out-and-out fight against the Volstead act is planned by the league.

If Sinclair is unable to speed up his affairs, he probably will sail on February 12. He has just returned to Paris from London.

THREE SLAIN IN GAS EXPLOSION

Many Injured as Outbreak Of Fire Traps Workers On Upper Floors

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 2.—Three persons were known to have been killed and a score of others injured, many seriously, here today in a gas explosion which occurred in the basement of the Bailey-Reynolds Chandlier company.

Flames spread to the upper stories of the building and a dozen other persons were believed to have been trapped.

Several of the injured were hurt when they jumped from the upper stories of the building following the explosion.

Firemen Save Injured

Efforts were being made shortly after the explosion to confine the flames to the one building, which quickly reached the second floor, and was burning fiercely.

They were successful in entering the building and carried out several of the injured people to waiting ambulances.

Accurate check of the injured was not made as the firemen and volunteer workers rushed the victims to waiting ambulances.

Desperate efforts were being made to reach those reported trapped in the upper sections of the building.

POMERENE MAY BE SPECIAL OIL COUNSEL

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—Atlee Pomerene, former United States Senator, of Ohio, probably will be selected by President Coolidge to succeed Thomas Watt Gregory, attorney general in the Wilson cabinet, as the Democratic member of the special presidential counsel to investigate and prosecute the naval oil leasing cases, it was learned here this afternoon. Gregory's name will be withdrawn by the president because of the fact that he had represented the Doheny oil interests, after his retirement from the cabinet.

CELEBRATION STARTS OFF GLENDALE AVENUE LINE

Special Cars Carry Civic Boosters; Visit Los Angeles, Eagle Rock; Hold Barbecue

It was a big moment for Glendale when, at 10:15 o'clock this morning, the three Glendale & Montrose special cars crossed Broadway and swung south over virgin tracks down Glendale avenue to Glassell Park, carrying over 100 prominent citizens, with the Sciots' band triumphantly playing and the great banners on the sides of each car proclaiming to the world the message of Glendale.

The occasion was staged to mark the opening of the new Glendale avenue electric line, and it marked the fulfilment of a dream that has long occupied the minds of a number of far-visioned men who have builded steadily toward the end that was accomplished this morning, when a new traffic link was forged between Glendale and her sister city of Los Angeles.

Ride Revelation

The ride was a revelation, as well as an inspiration, for it the cars a vista of territory, tributary to and included in Glendale, that many of them had never before inspected at close range, giving them a better idea of the potential greatness of the city they love so well and where they are building so constructively.

But the greatest moment of triumph came when the three yellow cars, to which the party was transferred after reaching Glassell Park, made its way down

At Newton Home

Mrs. M. C. Newton of 1216 South Boynton street, was hostess Thursday afternoon at a silver tea at her home for the benefit of the Glendale Avenue Parent-Teachers' association. A comfort was tied during the afternoon that will be sent to the federation. The hostess was assisted in serving by Mrs. Robert Lord.

P. E. O. Hostess

The members of chapter BA, P. E. O. were entertained on Friday at an all day meeting and luncheon at the home of Mrs. Frank C. Ayars, 315 North Orange stret. The assisting hostesses were Mrs. A. S. Chase, and Mrs. Walter Stamps.

Mrs. Frank N. Arnold the president, conducted the business session in the morning.

An interesting announcement was that the "B. I. L.'s of the chapter, the only "Famous Men" mentioned on a year's program devoted exclusively to "Famous Women" will entertain the chapter at a Valentine dinner at The Oak Tree Inn, February 15. The committee in charge of arrangements includes R. M. Brown, Chas B. Guthrie, Oliver Clark, Robert Kolts and Claude Case.

Mrs. Arnold sang a group of songs by this composer "The Year's at the Spring," "Baby" "Sherla Van," and Lullaby." Mrs. Alice Ripley also contributed instrumental selections to the afternoon's program.

Guests of the chapter were Mrs. J. T. Cramton and Mrs. Thos. McDougal of Chapter CJ.

Reads "The Ship"

"The Ship," a drama written by St. John Irvine and read yesterday afternoon at the open meeting of the drama section of the Tuesday Afternoon club, by Clara Bryant Heywood, chairman of drama of the Los Angeles District, California Federation of Women's clubs, proved most interesting to the large group of Tuesday Afternoon club women present.

This play was written following the sinking of the Titanic. From this great sea tragedy the author received the inspiration for his drama, which gives the story of a shipbuilder and his son.

Mrs. Heywood's presentation was most artistic and her hearers were greatly pleased to become acquainted with her talent and personality.

Musical entertainment was given by Mrs. Ralph Penland, vocalist, who sang "At Parting" and "The Pine Tree." She was accompanied by Mrs. Roberta T. Young.

Mrs. Max Lynn Green, curator, directed the meeting and later in the afternoon tea was served by the hostesses, Mesdames R. L. Galvin, Charles Gowan, O. E. Gates, C. O. Kling, H. C. Vandewater and W. E. Halstead.

There were over thirty guests present, all members of the Daughters of Veterans, auxiliary of the Sons of Veterans, and W. R. C. Mrs. Griffin has been an active member of the above mentioned societies for a number of years and will be greatly missed by the members. She has taken an earnest interest in all patriotic circles and has given generously of her time and energy.

A delicious luncheon was served at 12:30 o'clock, followed by an enjoyable social afternoon.

Mrs. Audrey Hall Billingsley favored those present with several piano selections during the afternoon.

During the meeting $10 was voted to the fund being raised to hold a drive for putting the Bible in the public schools.

Late in the evening refreshments were served by the following hostesses: Mesdames Hazel Murdy, Minnie Miller, Ruby McCumber, Hattie McDaniels, Florence McCullough, Edith Mulligan, Pearl Milner and Mamie Mathiesen.

Gives Luncheon

Attractive in its appointments was the luncheon given yesterday by Mrs. Emma Kortz of 341 Salem street for a group of Los Angeles and Glendale friends.

A pretty combination of pink and lavender was seen on the table, pink and lavender sweet peas forming the center piece, while cunning lavender and pink favor baskets were found at the places.

Guests were Mesdames Max Roth, J. A. Rhomberg, Ida B. Weeks, J. F. Kline, L. Smale of Los Angeles; and Mrs. J. Allen of Des Moines, Iowa, and her sister, Mrs. L. I. Goldthwaite of Glendale, with whom she is visiting.

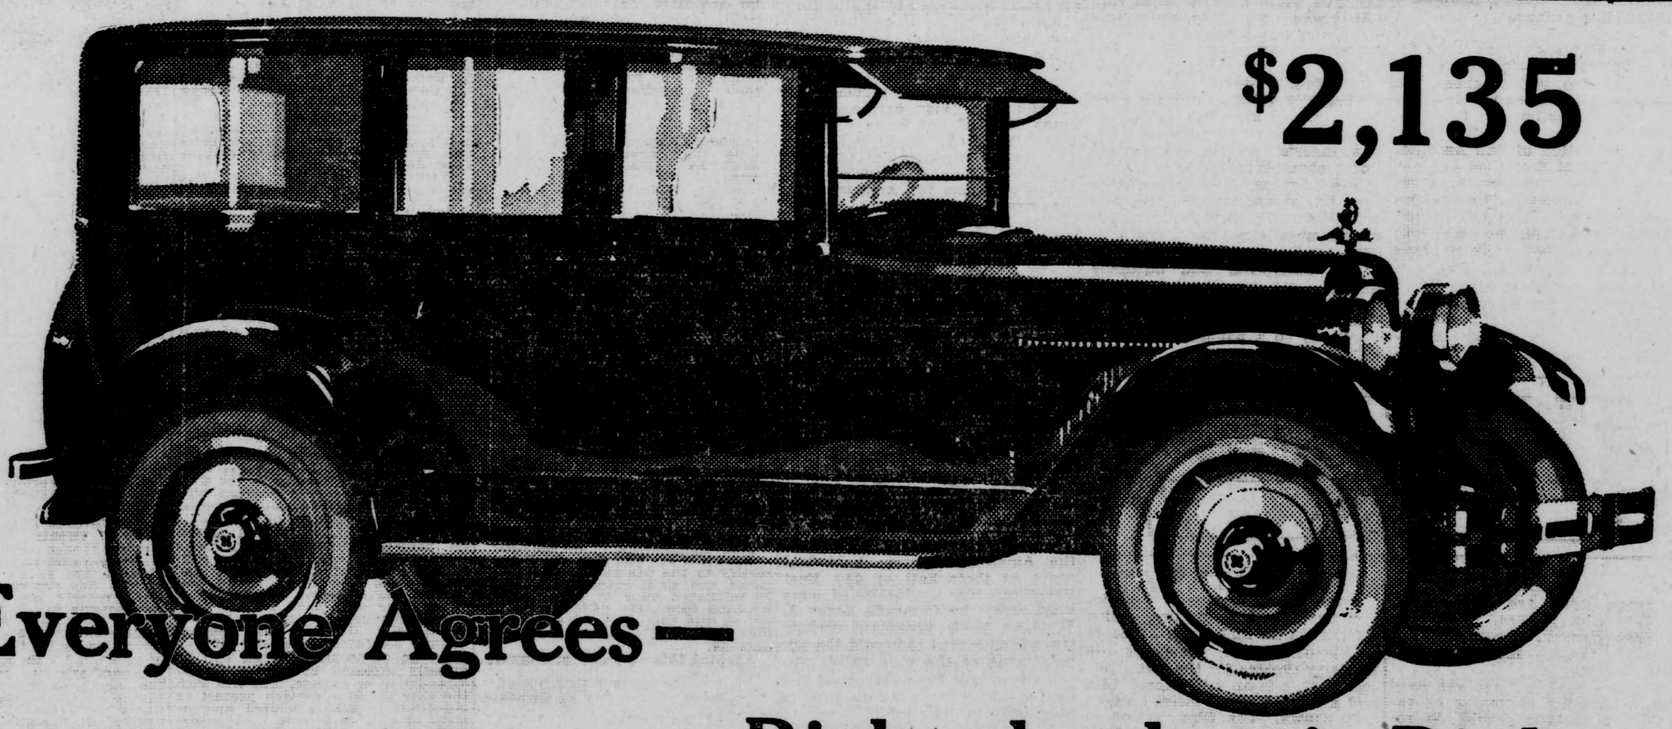
Rickenbacker

A • CAR • WORTHY • OF • ITS • NAME

No Vibration

4 Wheel Brakes



$2,135

Everyone Agrees—

Rickenbacker is Right

Enthusiastic and instantaneous endorsement was the response to that epoch-making announcement of "Nothing Else to Buy."

Factory advises us that orders are pouring in, and we are warned that demand for Rickenbacker Cars will exceed the possible supply, so we can expect only our quota.

That's the most eloquent endorsement of this latest Rickenbacker policy—a "Fully-Equipped Car."

You know what we mean, of course—a car, that as it comes to you, and at the advertised price, is so completely equipped with every desirable safety factor and convenience that there is left for you, "Nothing Else to Buy."

That announcement made by Rickenbacker at the opening of the New York show, created a sensation almost as great as had previous epochal improvements first announced in Rickenbacker cars.

It was as great an innovation in its way as were the Vibrationless Motor, the Two Fly Wheels, the Automatic Air Cleaner, Disc Steel Wheels, Cradle Springs and 4-Wheel Brakes.

Until Rickenbacker set this new standard—this higher code of selling ethics—you used to pay extra for such necessities as front and rear Bumpers, Automatic Windshield Wiper, Disc Steel Wheels, Motometer, Wind Wings, Car Heater, etc., etc.

When you had paid for your car, you had only begun—you still had to pay $150 to $250 more before your car was complete.

Since January 1st, included as "standard equipment" in Rickenbacker cars are the following:—

Bumpers—front and rear; Folberth Automatic Windshield Cleaner; Moto-Meter; Moto-Meter Wings; Moto-Meter Lock; Transmission Lock; Ignition Switch Lock; Drum Tire-Cover; "Stop" light; "Pipeless" Car-Heater; Rear View Mirror; Shock Absorbers. Closed Models have Vanity Case and Clock. Open Models—Bevel Plate Windshield Wings—and all models have 4-Wheel Brakes, of course.

You are entitled to all these things and at the advertised price of any car—for Rickenbacker has included them without changing prices of closed models, and on open models at considerably reduced prices.

But accessories alone do not make a car.

So even did you obtain all these "extras" you still could not hope for Rickenbacker performance, or low upkeep, unless that car also had all the advanced engineering features which have made this car famous.

Rickenbacker is first choice of men who know most about automobiles, and when you learn all there is to know about this car no one could sell you any other at any price.

But, considering the nation-wide popularity and demand for Rickenbackers, you must not delay if you would ensure reasonably early delivery.

We are now taking orders for spring delivery—and a limited number for immediate—or as soon as we can get them.

So we suggest you place your order early—now—if you would avoid disappointment.

New Sensations Daily
Why Lawyer Legislators?
Back-Fire For Democrats
Former President Wilson

By Gil A. Cowan

Every day brings a new sensation in the naval oil reserves lease scandals. Today the public is learning how officials are hired by the wholesale by wealthy interests. Of course, that is not GRAFT. Most of these officials are lawyers and members of firms which may accept retainers without the least equivocation.

Why, it was very common knowledge at the state capitol in Sacramento that certain lawyers who were representatives in the House and Senate were paid to represent special interests and NOTHING WAS THOUGHT ABOUT IT.

Indeed, little or nothing can be done about it other than for the public to refuse to elect any member of the legal profession to public office so long as they accept these retainers. If a newspaperman, or a minister, or an educator, or a labor union official, or anyone else elected by the people, or appointed by the powers that be, should dare to take ten cents they would be hounded from here to breakfast by the lawyers.

NO ONE WOULD WANT A DOCTOR WHO ALSO WAS AN UNDERTAKER.

Why, then, do we insist on having attorneys make our laws and administer our government when it is possible for them to profit thereby?

Of course, they will reply that it takes lawyers to enact laws. For a fact, folks, few of the legalistic representatives draft their bills—a legislative counsel bureau attends to that detail. Then the attorney general is called in to pass on the constitutionality of measures, and sometimes he is not sustained by courts of appeal.

We have the greatest respect for our many friends who are attorneys. We would rather commend than condemn their profession, but, in view of recent startling revelations, there seems to be a need of purging politics from the sinister influence of legal retaining fees.

And that's that.

The Democrats may find a backfire in their attack on President Coolidge's political chances because of the oil lease scandals. They may learn that Mr. McAdoo is in the same category as Mr. Fall.

It appears that Mr. McAdoo, among others, was in the employ of Mr. Doheny. He has received $100,000 or more—for what, we do not know. But we do know that Mr. McAdoo is the most prominent Democratic presidential possibility.

On the other hand, President Coolidge seems to be a poor picker, when it comes to prosecutors. He selected Thomas W. Gregory, former cabinet member, as one of two. Mr. Gregory, it appears, also has been retained by Mr. Doheny. Therefore, the president must find some one else.

Incidentally, it might be well to remember that Mr. McAdoo has a son who recently embarked in the oil business in Kern county, not so far away from Elk Hills where Mr. Doheny holds the naval reserve lease. It might be wise to have the son of a potential president highly interested in the matter.

The Roosevelt boys, also, have been figuring in the story. We wonder where young Charlie Taft is? And what are Senator Johnson's sons doing? Are they all lawyers or oil men? We simply ask to know.

"Doctor, I'm a broken man. I'm a broken piece of machinery. I am ready to go."

Those were the dramatic words of former President Wilson to his personal physician, Admiral Cary T. Grayson, as the former executive lay stricken yesterday in his Washington home.

Four years ago he first began his suffering from physical ills which carried down a brilliant mind, and with him went his plans for world peace. It seemed the hand of fate, yet he was to live and see another president pass on.

During the last twenty-four hours The Glendale Evening News has received many telephone calls regarding the former president's condition. As war president, he gripped the hearts of many; indeed, six years ago millions of men recognized him as their "commander-in-chief," and would have laid down their lives for Woodrow Wilson.

Urges Replacement of Leaky Water Pipes

Declaring that heavier pipe should be laid in the water main a Gardena street, where the city paving gangs are now working on the opening through Cerritos street to the Southern Pacific depot, C. A. Phillips, 1651 Gardena street, protests to The Glendale Evening News against the paving being laid over the present water main, which he describes as defective and worn out. The water main now in place, Mr. Phillips claims, permits seepage that is causing a pool of water to lie constantly in the street at that place. The section of water pipe at Cerritos street, Mr. Phillips urges, should be replaced with new pipe immediately.

Another matter that calls for remedy, he asserts, is the leaving of the old electric light poles in the middle of the street, following the erection of the new poles that have recently been erected.

Curacao liquor, which takes its name from the island, is made from orange peel digesting in sweetened spirits, and spices.

NATURE HITCHED HILTON SISTERS
Texas Twins Coming With Wortham Shows

Violet and Daisy Hilton, famous "Siamese" twins, who are one of the major attractions with the Charles A. Wortham shows exhibiting here next week under the auspices of the local post of the American Legion.

The Charles A. Wortham shows, with 400 performers, fifteen shows, six rides, band, parade, 'nall, will invade Glendale Monday morning for a nine days' stand under the auspices of the local American Legion post. Harry Sanger and W. H. White, advance men, have been in Glendale the past week arranging for the exhibition. The show lot will be the triangle bounded by San Fernando road, Brand boulevard and Cerritos avenue.

Although every show is reported to be absolutely high class by the members of the local post who attended two performances at Huntington Park and Whittier, the main attraction is the so-called "Siamese Twins," Violet and Daisy Hilton of San Antonio. As a matter of fact they are not Siamese twins, but merely grown together American girls seventeen years of age. They are joined together by a skin, muscular and blood growth, but their nervous systems are seperate. One can read a book while the other sleeps and one can carry on a conversation while the other reads a book. They are pronounced by scientists to be of the highest intellectual standard of any of the eight pairs of joined twins in America. They are typical American girls, full of fun, and are retiring at the end of the present season to return to their ranch near San Antonio.

Harry Tantlinger, who conducts the wild west show for the Wortham shows was arena superintendent of the Miller Brothers' 101 Ranch show when the war broke out. The show was forced out of business by the government when it took over the horses. They left, however, "Winnipeg," who has never been successfully ridden, and six trick mules, which are on exhibition with the Wortham shows. Mr. Tantlinger's wife is one of the finest shots in America.

The Legion has supervision over the shows at all times and anything of an objectionable character will not be allowed to open.

The caterpillar and butterfly rides are something new that have never toured California before, and are sure, so Mr. Sanger declares, to be a popular attraction during the week.

THEATRES

THE GLENDALE

"When Odds Are Even," a William Fox picture, featuring William Russell, shows at the Glendale theatre for the last times today.

Those who have not yet seen this fascinating photoplay of romantic adventure should do so. It is worth while from every aspect, being fast, colorful and well acted. Besides William Russell, others who appear are Dorothy DeVore, Lloyd Whitlock, Frank Beal and Allen Cavan.

In addition, today's bill at the Glendale theatre includes five acts of standard Bert Levey coast-to-coast vaudeville, including novelty, dancing and singing numbers.

Starting tomorrow and continuing Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, "The Man Life Passed By" will show at this theatre, with Jane Novak, Percy Marmont, Eva Novak, Cullen Landis and Hobart Bosworth.

THE GATEWAY

"The Green Goddess," a Goldwyn-Cosmopolitan picture, with George Arliss and Alice Joyce in the leading roles, shows at the Gateway theatre for the last times today. This is an exceptional film and has been well received wherever shown. The film version is adapted from the stage by William Archer and directed by Sidney Olcott.

Starting tomorrow and continuing Monday and Tuesday, "Flaming Youth" comes to the Gateway theatre, a big First National attraction, exposing modern society with its jazz, flapperism, "petting" parties and other folly, by an author who wrote so frankly he dared not sign his name to the result.

A more startling picture than this has seldom been seen. The cast includes Colleen Moore, Milton Sills, Elliott Dexter, Sylvia Breamer and Myrtle Stedman.

Large Jewelry Stock Will Go at Auction

The beautiful and expensive jewelry stock of the R. L. Cole establishment at 106 East Broadway will go under the hammer during an auction that will start in the store at 2 o'clock next Monday afternoon. The store has been operating for seven years and is one of Glendale's highest class jewelry establishments. Mr. Cole stated that he has no intention of going out of business, but is simply conducting this saile in order to raise money.

Sympathy Expressed By Local Kiwanians

The loyalty and esteem of the members of the Glendale Kiwanis club to Woodrow Wilson and their anxiety because of the ex-president's grave illness was fittingly and beautifully expressed in resolutions adopted by the club during its session Friday noon. A special committee appointed for the purpose made public the following:

"The sad word has come to the members of the Glendale Kiwanis club, in session this Friday noon, of the grave physical condition of our beloved ex-president, Woodrow Wilson. It is the will of the Kiwanis club, by quiet and unanimous vote, that the undersigned committee shall express in a public way through the press of our city the deep concern of its members.

"Strong men everywhere shall be bowed in grief for the departure of our great war president. In him were exemplified many of the traits that the youth of coming generations shall be inspired to follow. His world service and outlook and his extraordinary grasp of mind and heart will endear him to the whole world for all time. He lived far in advance of his age. A martyr to his hopes and aspirations for America and the world, he shall go down in history with Washington and Lincoln and the great men of the world.

"The Kiwanis club bids men everywhere to do honor to his memory and to highly resolve to 'carry on' to help and heal a broken and wounded world.

Post No. 8 Meets Glendale in San Fernando League Play-off of Tie

With Heidler serving the slants, Glendale's K. C. team will be at home tomorrow afternoon to American Legion Post No. 8 in a San Fernando Valley league play-off of a 3-3 tie that resulted from the last clash of these two outfits. The fracas bids fair to be one of the best offered in these parts, and a large crowd is expected to be on hand for the encounter.

Captain Manush has pulled the Caseys out of the slump they experienced at the first of the season and they have overcome all opposition in the last four games. Their stick work has shown considerable improvement and they have out-hit their opponents consistently.

Perroni will do the catching, with the regular infield of Doll, Fansett, H. Doll and Fruhling. R. Roll, Manush and Harris will play in the outfield.

Pico, one of the most promising youngsters to attract the attention of the big league scouts this year will be in the Post 8 line-up, and local fans are looking forward with pleasure to seeing him perform.

The game will be called at 2:15. The White Sox are playing the Union Tool at Torrance so the Caseys will have the field to themselves Sunday.

Official Activities Revealed In Reports

GLENDALE TEAMS GET EVEN BREAK

Four Cage Quintets Divide Honors With Tigers of South Pasadena

By NEAL A. SOOY
Of The Evening News Staff.

Dynamite doesn't always succeed in capturing the scalps of Tigers. And this fact was proved this week when the four Glendale Union High school basketball teams broke even with the South Pasadena quintets. The unlimited and 110-pound teams won, while the 130 and 90-pounders lost.

Dope was upset and scattered around during the progress of the games. South Pasadena ran in some of its heavyweight men on the 130-pound team, and won, 27-12, their weight telling in the initial half. The midgets were doped to win the league pennant, but, from the looks of things, the league will end in a triple tie. With Hibbs, who was just declared eligible, at center, the varsity got moving, and swamped the Tigers, 33-5. The Class C squad waded through the Cubs, 13-9, while the Class D gang lost, 6-4.

Pennant Hopes Fade

Class B hopes for a pennant were considerably dampened when they lost to the Baby Tigers on the winner's court Thursday. The victors shoved in some of their first-string men, and the weight told. The locals fought against Old Man Hard Luck as well, as the midgets shot short shots time and again, and the ball would cavort teasingly on the rim, and then fall—the wrong way. Lovell played a steady game at forward, flashing all around the floor.

The 110's snapped out of the trance they played under in their last fracas, and put up a real showing Thursday, when they defeated the South Pasadena Cubs on the loser's floor. The score was tied at four-all at the end of the first half, but in the last frame "Smokey Red" Smith got busy and began popping in baskets. Steele played a good game along with Smith.

Gnatweights Shine

Although a newly-organized quintet, the 90-pound or gnatweight team put up a good fight against the more experienced South Pasadena babes. A superior defense was the locals' obstacle. Muff at guard played a wonderful game for a person knee-high-to-a-grasshopper, being here, there and everywhere all the time. Had it not been for his fight, the mites would have been swamped. Osler and Read also accounted for themselves well, as did Wilson. McDougal was too dead on his feet at first, but he improved and followed the ball a lot better than when he started.

Hold Celebration For G. & M. Electric Line

North Main street into Los Angeles and swung north again along Broadway, passing through the close packed Saturday traffic that marks the heart of the Southland's metropolis.

Advertise Glendale

With the Sciots band's sounding its brazen challenge to the world, the banners proclaiming the greatness of Glendale on the sides of the three special cars, the hundreds of thousands of people in the business section of Los Angeles, along the sidewalks, from the windows of stores and skyscraper office buildings, watched with the keenest interest the progress of the celebrants and rejoiced with them in the accomplishment of another worth-while project for the development of Glendale and its neighboring city.

Swinging back to Glendale, the guests were taken to Verdugo Woodlands, where an open air barbecue was spread for the party by F. P. Newport Co., realtors, and, with C. W. Ingledue, president of the Glendale Advancement Association, acting as toastmaster, the members of the party reviewed from the beginnings the steps that led to today's accomplishment.

Visit Subdivisions

With the barbecue out of the way the party will go by automobile to Sparr Heights, the Barnum-Walter project that is drawing so many persons to the foothills north of Glendale, and where they will visit the Oakmont Country club, rapidly rounding into shape as one of the most important social and athletic centers of the southland.

The trip by the Glendale & Montrose cars will then be resumed, the party going on up to Montrose and La Crescenta, the end of the line, back over the Eagle Rock line to "flagpole" corner of Colorado and Eagle Rock boulevards, and thence back to Glendale, where the history-making trip will end about 5 o'clock this evening.

Bands and Banners

Throughout the entire trip to Los Angeles and back, the banners that decorated the cars, reading "The Glendale Avenue Car Line Means a Greater Glendale; 52,000 now—150,000 in 1930. Glendale, the Ideal Home City," drew the attention of the massed thousands along the route, and those who might have overlooked the banners and cheering crowds that filled the special cars could not possibly help hearing the music of the Sciots band, whose members threw themselves into their work for the glory of Glendale with an enthusiasm worthy of the great cause in which they were engaged.

NINE EVENTS AT ASCOT SPEEDWAY

Postponed Program to Be Run Off Sunday; Big Money For Speed Kings

The Ascot Speedway program which was postponed last Sunday on account of rain will be run off Sunday, February 3. Nine races, five for automobilists and four for motor-bike daredevils, will be on the card.

While the battle between Ralph DePalma and Fred Horey, holder of the Ascot Helmet, will attract most attention from the dyed-in-the-wool speed fans, there are a large number of great drivers capable of evolving into a winner in one or more of the events.

Big Money Prizes

Fifteen thousand dollar in cash prizes and bonuses will be awarded. The distances of the races will range from a one-lap dash to the feature event of the day, the Ascot Sweepstakes, at a distance of twenty-five laps.

Nominations totaling fifty-eight were made before the lists closed on Thursday night.

JOINS SCIOTS TONIGHT

Detective Lieutenant W. J. Royle of the Glendale police force tonight will be initiated into the Sciots. His fellow officers, members of the order, are assuring him a pleasant surprise party. Naturally, he is not himself today.

POLAND LOOKING TO U. S. FOR AID

Social Worker Tells Needs Of European Nation at Sisterhood Meet

Glendale had as a visitor yesterday Madame Josefe Kudlicka, organizer of the first Young Women's Christian association in Poland and of the Polish Red Cross, who spoke to the Jewish Sisterhood meeting with Mrs. E. W. Kinney of 123 West Elk avenue.

"Poland looks to America as her only salvation," declared Madame Kudlicka, in talking of a Fourth of July celebration in Poland. She said that the celebration was so elaborate and spirited that it brought tears to the eyes of American soldiers then in Polish quarters.

Served in Poland

Madame Kudlicka was born in Poland and brought to the United States when 2 years old. Here she grew to womanhood and was married. At the beginning of the war she was sent to Poland to organize the first Y. W. C. A. and later served with the Red Cross, making inspection tours of the United States hospitals and Red Cross institutions.

From this work she took up the organization of the Polish Red Cross.

In praising the relief work of the Americans Madame Kudlicka mentioned among others the Hoover relief, Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., Salvation Army and Jewish relief.

Mrs. John Robert White, chairman of the Glendale Red Cross chapter, was an honored guest at the meeting at the Kinney home.

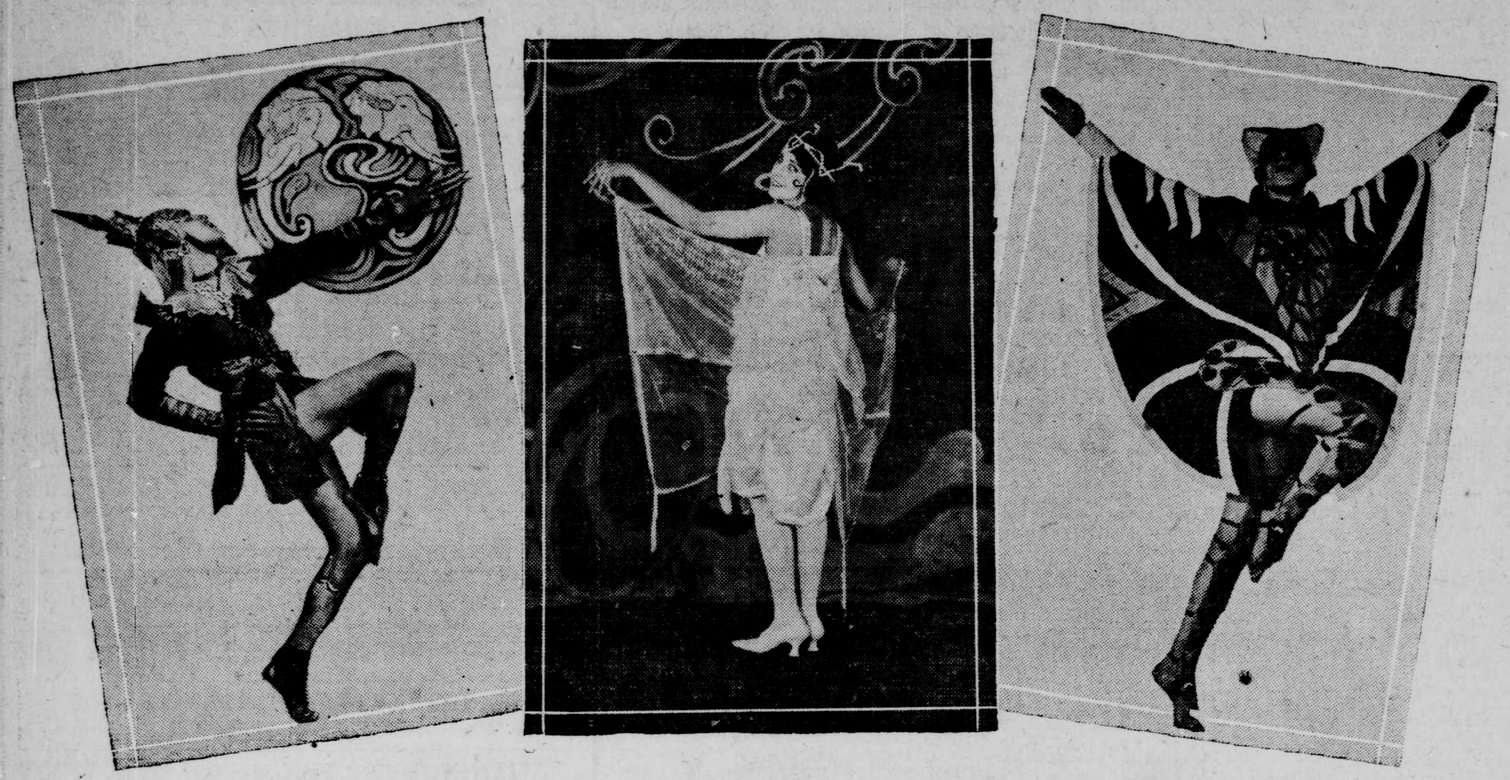
L. A. Ban on Late Dancing Sends Annual Bal Masque to Glendale



From right to left, participants in the Artists' Bal Masque here last night are: Adriana Bissiri, as The Bat; Rita Van, as The Vamp, and Flavio Pallisare, the latter starring in his famous Greenwich Village dance. Many of the costumes were surprise affairs and no photographs taken, but thanks are due Claude G. Putnam for these pictures. The engraving is by Thorpe Engraving company. The work of the commercial artists speaks for itself, we'll say.

Glendale was favored last night in having the annual Bal Masque of the Artists' Guild of Southern California. Heretofore, it has been held in Los Angeles, but due to the enforcement of the dancing ordinance in the hotels of that city the home of Mr. and Mrs. Claude G. Putnam, "Whispering Pines," on North Glendale avenue, was thrown open to the artists. The Bal Masque is comparable to the Quartz Arts ball of San Francisco, except that it is more exclusive.

The list of those present was confined to seventy leaders of the profession of commercial arts and all of the fantastic costumes imaginable were to be found—everything from the grind-organ man, Mars, to a fire chief. Hula dancers, butterfly girls, senoritas and mandarin maids were among the coterie while a cute little billiken and an archangel were to be found romping around.

Augusto Bissiri entertained the throng with his silhouette comique while Flavio Pallisare did his famous Greenwich village dance. Other bizarre numbers and music by a bohemian orchestra added to the zest of the evening's entertainment.

At midnight a barbecue was served in the Putnam's Aztec cellar, after which dancing was enjoyed until a late hour this morning. The committee on arrangements for the Bal Masque was composed of Guy P. Goodwin, Agusto Bissiri, John Coolidge, Arthur Beaumont, Sam H. Harris, Katherin Shoemaker and Claude G. Putnam.

FINED FOR SPEEDING

Judge J. Russell Morton of Pasadena, sitting for Police Judge F. H. Lowe, yesterday afternoon fined O. L. Willard and J. L. Muddersback of Los Angeles and Jack Frost of Hollywood $25 each on speeding charges.

Judge Lowe was able to be at his office this morning for a few minutes. He is feeling poorly, having recently undergone an operation.

'Iron Man' McGinnity May Coach Pitchers

DUBUQUE, Iowa, Feb. 2.—Joe "Iron Man" McGinnity, famous pitching veteran who piloted the Dubuque club of the Mississippi Valley league to a pennant last year, probably will accept an offer from John J. McGraw to act as pitcher coach for the New York Giants, he announced today.

ASK SUPPORT OF KELLY WAGE BILL

Postal Workers in Campaign To Enlist Assistance Of Glendalians

Clerks and carriers from the Glendale postoffice will make a house to house canvass of the residence districts of Glendale tomorrow morning, Sunday, February 3, to secure the support of the people of the city for the Kelly bill that is now before Congress to obtain an advance in the rate of pay for these two branches of the postoffice employes.

It is pointed out by Assistant Postmaster George Hallett that the present rates of pay are so low that they cannot attract recruits to the postal service, and as a consequence the service is suffering, not only here but all over the country, and the object of the Kelly bill is to place the salaries of postoffice employes on a scale that will result in increased efficiency all along the line. The clerks and carriers will urge that those on whom they call write to the California delegation in Congress urging their support of the Kelly bill.

OPERATED UPON

ADD EXPERTS TO REALTORS' STAFF

Rhoades & Smith Widen Scope of Activities Thru Enlarged Force

Growth of business and desire to give additional service in all departments of their business have caused the real estate firm of Rhoades & Smith, 106 East Wilson avenue, to reorganize its force with the addition of some very high class helpers.

The real estate department has been put under the management of W. T. Vickery, an affable and capable newcomer, who has been engaged in real estate for years in the middle western states, and for the year just past has been in that business in Los Angeles. Mr. Vickery has moved his family, which contains five children, to Glendale, and is living at 1223 Campbell.

Adds Two Salesmen

Two salesmen have been added under Mr. Vickery's management. They are W. E. Greer and A. L. Smith, both of whom are trained realty men. The department is handling all kinds of real estate business, and specializing in business and income properties.

In order to establish a first class insurance department, the company has engaged the services of Thomas A. Murphy, who was formerly in charge of the insurance department of a large company in Santa Ana. He is a thorough expert on insurance, and will create a real insurance service for Rhoades & Smith. He has moved to Glendale with his family and is living at 1428 B Glendale avenue.

GANG OF CROOKS ACTIVE IN CITY

Police May Launch Drive to Round Up Thieves In Glendale

"There's a gang of crooks in town."

The reports on the police blotter of the last week verify his opinion.

During the night two more houses were burglarized, it was reported, both robberies being the work of sneak thieves who ply a wicked jimmy, it would appear.

The B. A. Young home at 309 West Garfield avenue was broken into, the thieves forcing the rear door and ransacking the house. Considerable jewelry of small value was taken, including a Waltham watch. A .32 calibre Savage revolver also was stolen, according to Mr. Young's list of lost property filed with the department this morning.

George Home Robbed

F. M. George of 341 West California avenue also reported his home burglarized and Policemen Lauritzen and Hamilton investigated. A list of the loot has not been filed.

Detectives are continuing their investigation of the robberies at the B. F. Fallows home, 421 East Windsor road, and the Louise Gratias home, 1009 East Acacia avenue, as well as the latest events.

A round-up of questionable characters may be necessary, it was indicated, to rid the city of the petty thieves.

AUTOMOBILE SECTION

PART TWO — GLENDALE, LOS ANGELES COUNTY, CALIFORNIA, SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 2, 1924 — PAGES 1 TO 6

Maxwell Shows Joys of Santa Barbara Trip

CITES FACTS ON NUMBER OF AUTOS

Division of Motor Vehicles Chief Makes Estimates On Cars, Licenses

The value of all automobiles registered in California at the end of 1924 will approximate a grand total of $650,000,000.00 based on estimates prepared by Will H. Marsh, chief of the Division of Motor Vehicles. The division has made plans to register 1,300,000 cars during this year and Marsh estimates the average value of each at $500.00.

Here are some interesting facts about these cars:

Placed end to end they would measure a distance of 3,693 miles, enough to reach from San Francisco to New Orleans and back to El Paso again.

Seven Miles Square

Allowing a parking space, 15 feet long and 10 feet wide for each car, they would cover a field seven miles square.

Passenger cars, alone, if set end to end, would form a solid line around the State of California with several hundred cars to spare.

The license plates which the division will issue for these cars, if placed end to end would reach from Sacramento to Los Angeles.

Side by side these plates would make a path wide enough for a man to walk on from San Francisco to Fresno.

Thirty-Eight Carloads

If all the numbers of these plates were added together a total, greater than the combined wealth of the world, would be secured.

They would form the steps for a ladder 500 miles high.

Thirty-eight box cars were required to haul the plates from the factory to Sacramento. Their total weight is 1,040,000 pounds.

At 14.5 cents a pair they cost $188,500.

WEST NOTED AS MOTOR MARKET

Recognition of Coast States Importance Given By Manufacturers

Recognition of the great importance of the Pacific coast as a motor car market has been given by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce through the appointment of C. P. Clark as resident district field representative.

Both manufacturers and dealers have long felt the need of such a contact man to acquaint makers with the trade conditions and opportunities of this rich and fast growing far west section of the United States and to bring the automobile building and retailing branches of the industry on the Pacific coast into more effective touch with one another.

It has long been felt that an impartial official investigator and co-worker amply fortified by accurate general information and intercourse with dealers, trade associations, chambers of commerce, bank officials and others, could better collect and transmit facts and figures of value to both branches of the industry than a naturally biased reporter acting in the exclusive interest of any one maker, or distributor.

Clark's Job Big One

The duties of this district representative will be manifold and comprehensive; for it is understood that the N. A. C. C. expects him:

To meet with bankers and financiers with a view to finding the exact credit condition of the industry and its dealers;

To check up with the dealers on trade conditions, car shortage, used cars, and percentage of cars sold on time payments;

To address rotary clubs and chambers of commerce on highway transportation;

Good Maxwell Easy For Woman To Pilot

This picture shows Mrs. Ingram, wife of W. S. Ingram of The Glendale Evening News, standing by the Maxwell four-passenger coupe delivered to her this week by Lyman P. Clark, head of the Glendale Motor Car Company, 124 West Colorado, agency for the Maxwell and Chalmers. The Maxwell has proven to be a particularly easy car for a woman driver to pilot, it is pointed out by Mr. Clark, and the four-passenger coupe is one of the most popular models.

LYMAN P. CLARK POINTS OUT ADMIRABLE JOURNEY ON FINEST OF HIGHWAYS

Popular Car Makes 'Travelogue' for The Evening News; Women Drivers Find It Easy to Negotiate

By C. A. GRIFFIN
Of The Evening News Staff.

The trip to Santa Barbara by way of San Fernando boulevard and the Santa Clara river road, with return over the Ventura highway, is recommended by Lyman P. Clark of the Glendale Motor Car Company, 124 West Colorado street, local Maxwell and Chalmers agent, as one of the most interesting and pleasant one-day drives available to Glendale motorists.

A feature of this journey especially noted by Mr. Clark is the fact that every mile of it is on a boulevard, all paved, no detours, no bad stretches. Although the big circle includes both mountain and beach scenery, there are no grades that cannot be made on high.

Easy Drive to Make

For women drivers, or others who want a fine, long day's trip without having to struggle against any unpleasant factors, Mr. Clark recommends the Santa Barbara drive.

Leaving Glendale northward on the San Fernando boulevard, the motorist follows the main inland route to San Francisco until he reaches Castac. Here the road divides, and, while the principal stream of traffic runs north toward Bakersfield, there is a splendid boulevard westward from Castac, paralleling the Santa Clara river almost all the way to Ventura.

Through Rich Section

Grass and willows border the Santa Clara river, and it runs through what Mr. Clarke describes as one of the most productive and richest agricultural areas in Southern California. The valley has long been noted for its fruit, and now the success of the Fillmore and Santa Paula oil wells is bringing new growth and activity.

The Ventura highway is reached a couple of miles outside Ventura, and from then on through Ventura, along the seaside through Summerland, where the oil derricks are set in the ocean, and into Santa Barbara is a journey so full of interest that it is well worth repeating on the homeward trip.

Visit Noted Mission

At Santa Barbara, if one has time after luncheon, one should visit the mission, one of the most famous in California.

Returning, the motorist keeps to the Ventura highway, climbing the Coneho grade, pausing at the top to look back over the wonderful valley below, then twisting and turning through mountain scenes, along a perfect road, for mile after mile, conquering the Santa Monica mountains and feeling the thrill of accomplishment both for himself and his car.

Through Dark Canyon

Instead of entering Hollywood, a short cut from the Ventura boulevard is offered through Dark canyon. A modern road runs through this canyon, connecting Burbank with a point on the Ventura road between Universal City

Heavy Channel Iron Serves as Straightener

A heavy section of channel iron will serve as a straightening press by fastening it to the bench with lag screws and drilling the center of its upper flange to permit tapping for a ¾-inch U. S. standard thread. Into this is inserted a piece of cold rolled steel threaded for about six inches at one end and then bent beyond the threaded section to form a handle. Straightening can be accomplished by supporting the work on V-blocks with the bent section placed under the threaded end of the bar which, when turned will form the pressure necessary for straightening operations.

Handle With Strap Moves Unruly Parts

A handle made from close grained wood about twelve inches long, with a piece of belting or a strap about eighteen inches long fastened to it by means of wood screws, will form a handy tool about the shop for removing lamp rims, radiator and gasoline tank caps, etc. It can also be used for removing the dust caps of metallic universal joints. The tool is used by wrapping the strap around the part and holding the end by pressure on the handle. As the pressure is increased in turning the strap will firmly grip the part without marring it and permit its removal.

Another Reason Why—

The Buick Third Member

Buick cars drive through a third member, not the springs. The springs only support the body and assure easy riding.

A Buick rear spring accidentally broken cannot misalign the axle and prevent driving the car.

The Buick Axle Remains in Fixed Position

Quick Way to Compress Valve Spring Is Told

When removing valves, the spring must first be compressed before the retaining key can be removed. The usual method of doing this is by the use of a spring compression tool, which means that the spring must again be permitted to expand before the tool can be removed for use on the next valve. A quicker and better way to do this work is by means of a simple tool consisting of a washer, large enough to pass over the valve tappet, which is cut out on one side so that it can be slipped over. Two pins of the proper height are then riveted to one side. In use, the engine is turned so that the valve is fully open, the tool is slipped into place, and the engine turned farther, so that the valve lowers. The pins will hold the spring in its compressed position, so that the key and valve may easily be removed. This tool is so easily made that one can be provided for each valve.

AGENT HEARS OF EXPANSION PLAN

Buick Plant is Enlarged by $11,000,000 Expenditure To Boost Output

In a letter received this week by W. A. Tanner, of Tanner & Hall, 237 South Brand boulevard, local dealers, the big construction program that the Buick company has outlined for the coming year is told. According to the message the factory will expend $11,000,000 in new buildings, additions and equipment for its main plant at Flint and its subsidiary factory at Detroit, this in order to bring the production capacity up to 1200 cars a day.

The information came direct from President H. H. Bassett, who pointed out that although the Buick factory built more than 200,000 automobiles in 1923 this record-breaking number was insufficient to supply the demand and that an expansion of the factory facilities was necessary. The company plans to build between 235,000 and 250,000 cars this calendar year and Bassett feels confident that with the new building and additions at both Flint and Detroit this estimated schedule can be easily carried out.

Giving further details, the letter states that already nearing completion is a stock storage building 1064 x 63 feet; also 41,000 square feet added to the Gray iron foundry; 8000 square feet to the forge shops and increased lumber-drying facilities for the body shop.

Additions authorized for completion prior to June 1, 1924, include the following: a 210x360 foot addition to motor plant; 55 x 120 foot addition to the heat-treat plant; 50 x 120 foot addition to the motor building; 125,000 square feet added to the sheet metal plant; 140 x 200 foot addition to completed car warehouse; 80 x 240 feet added to the tool-making shop.

These additions naturally require increased space for executive functions and for the latter purposes a number of entirely new buildings will be provided at Flint.

OUT OF OLD TIRES

Experiments are being conducted using rubber as a paving material for highways. Blocks, two inches thick and four and one-half inches wide, by twelve inches long, are made of old automobile tires ground up, properly compounded and molded separately under high pressure.

C. E. Dawson Heads Sales Department of Chevrolet Co.

C. E. Dawson has succeeded Colin Campbell, formerly general sales manager, Chevrolet Motor Company, who recently resigned, C. L. Smith, local dealer, Colorado and Orange street, has been advised.

Mr. Dawson was formerly assistant general sales manager of the company, having been actively associated with the Chevrolet organization since July, 1912, when he began as a retail salesman in Detroit. Later he served as wholesale representative, wholesale supervisor of twelve states, manager of the Detroit Chevrolet retail store, zone sales manager at Flint, Mich., and assistant general sales manager at Detroit. He is well qualified for the heavy responsibility of directing the sales of the second largest producer in the automobile field.

SPECIAL SIX IS SHOW SENSATION

Motorists Laud Nash Car at New York Display For Striking Beauty

Outspoken admiration on the part of the public at the New York Automobile show was accorded the new Nash Special Six sedan. Advices received by the Nash Sales Company, Inc., 112 South Maryland avenue, local dealers, from representatives in New York declare that the Nash exhibit apparently was the center of attraction at the big national exposition.

"The new Nash Special Six sedan, with its thoroughly high-grade construction and elegance of appointments, coupled with its low price of $1640 f. o. b. factory, amazed show visitors," said E. H. McCarty, general sales manager of the Nash Motors company. "The demonstration of eager interest among the throngs about the Nash booth leaves no doubt as to the public's frank approval of this fine new four-door enclosed car."

Regardless of its low price, the Special sedan embodies practically every refinement and luxury that comes with custom-built cars. It's all-metal panel body is handsome in design; its upholstery is of the finest grade of blue mohair cloth. There is a rear-vision mirror, jeweled clock, heater, automatic windshield wiper, silvered dome light, foot rest, tasseled silken curtains, and other furnishings found only in high-grade cars.

With the sensational introduction of the new Special Six sedan, Nash Motors enters the 1924 season with the most complete group of models in the history of the company. Altogether there are fifteen beautiful body styles, both open and closed, fours and sixes, offering the buyer a wide range of choice.

HUDSON COACHES TO BE DELIVERED

Shipment of Latest Models Expected by Kelley Early Next Week

Delivery of a shipment of the new Hudson coaches is expected at the Kelley Motor company's showrooms at 230 North Brand boulevard, Hudson and Essex dealers, and Manager P. A. Kelley is enthusiastic over the reception that has already been accorded this model here and elsewhere, a reception, he declares, that will speedily result in the disposal of the entire shipment.

Mr. Kelley points out that the Hudson coach, selling at $1475 f. o. b. factory, embodies the sterling principles that have held the Hudson in the front rank of automobiles for so many years, while improvements that have been added to this model place it in a class by itself for comfort and appearance.

The doors are wider than in other models, the seating capacity allows more room for the passengers, the larger, roomier body permits greater comfort at all times, while the improvements that have been embodied in the chassis render it much stronger and develop greater ease in riding than has been the case even in the best of the previous Hudsons.

Many other attractive features that are included in the Hudson coach make it a distinctively beautiful car, Mr. Kelley declares, and he looks for a record volume of sales during the coming season.

A Story of Success

How Studebaker Cars became leaders

145,000 people last year paid $200,000,000 for them

THE most talked-about cars among fine cars are the Studebaker Sixes — at $975 and up.

Sales have almost trebled in the past three years. The demand for these cars, growing by leaps and bounds, has been Motordom's chief sensation.

Over $200,000,000 was last year spent for Studebaker models.

Now we wish to explain, to all who are interested, the reasons for that success.

Studebaker has always led

For 72 years the name Studebaker has stood for quality and class.

Studebaker equipages, in the carriage days, held premier place. The White House owned them in the days of Grant and Harrison.

Now we make motor cars only. But the Studebaker name, in this modern field, simply had to maintain its prestige.

* * *

We had the money, we had the incentive — we who now control. And our one ambition has been to maintain the Studebaker place.

$90,000,000 assets behind us

Studebaker assets are $90,000,000. We have $50,000,000 in modern plants and equipment.

Not old plants re-adapted. We have spent $32,000,000 in new plants in five years. We have equipped them with 12,500 up-to-date machines.

Over $8,000,000 was spent on drop forge plants alone. Another $10,000,000 on body plants, to maintain our prestige in coach building.

We believe that no other plant in the country is so well equipped to build quality cars as Studebaker.

Engineering—$500,000 yearly

We created an engineering department which costs $500,000 yearly.

There are 125 skilled men there who devote their time to studying betterments in cars. They make 500,000 tests yearly.

There is a department of Methods and Standards. They decide and fix every standard in these cars.

Our factories employ 1,200 inspectors, to make 30,000 inspections on all Studebakers cars. Few flaws, few mistakes can escape them. That, we believe, is the finest organization ever devoted to motor car building.

The price of quality

On some steel alloys for vital parts we pay 15% extra to get them exact.

We spend $600,000 yearly to machine all surfaces of crank shafts, just as in Liberty Airplane Motors. That is the reason for that perfect balance, that absence of vibration.

Every Studebaker car is Timken-equipped. The Special-Six and the Big-Six have more Timken bearings than any car selling under $5,600 in America. The Light-Six more than any competitive car within $1,000 of its price.

Open cars have real leather upholstery. They cost $25 more per car than imitation leather.

Our closed cars have Chase Mohair upholstery. This is made from the soft fleece of Angora goats. And a Sedan requires from 15 to 18 yards.

Velour for this upholstery would save us up to $100 per car.

Note the finish of every detail. Mark the infinite care. They add 25% to labor cost on luxurious closed bodies.

Note the completeness of our larger closed cars. The nickel-plated bumpers, the extra disc wheels and cord tires, the steel trunk, the courtesy light, etc. Think what they would cost you, bought as extras.

Thus we have made the Studebaker the leader of quality cars. We have built a demand exceeding 145,000 cars per year.

Learn the results of these efforts, in fairness to yourself. Don't buy a car at $1,000 or over without knowing what we offer.

Compare the parts and details. Mark the advantages we offer — scores on scores. Our experience is that 95% of those who do that buy a Studebaker car.

Learn why 145,162 bought Studebakers in 1923

In 1919, the public paid over $80,000,000 for 39,356 Studebaker cars.

In 1920, the public paid over $100,000,000 for 51,474 Studebaker cars, an increase of 31% over 1919

In 1921, the public paid over $120,000,000 for 66,643 Studebaker cars, an increase of 29% over 1920.

In 1922, the public paid over $155,000,000 for 110,269 Studebaker cars, an increase of 66% over 1921.

In 1923, the public paid over $201,000,000 for 145,162 Studebaker cars, an increase of 32% over 1922.

In 1924, business has opened with Studebaker as never before.

more Ford cars and trucks were produced last year than the previous year, an increase of over 50 per cent.

In spite of this tremendous increase in production, it was impossible to meet delivery requirements during the spring and summer months when orders for 350,000 Ford Cars and Trucks could not be filled.

This year winter buying for immediate delivery has been more active than ever before—and in addition 200,000 orders have already been booked through the Ford Weekly Purchase Plan for spring delivery.

These facts clearly indicate that the demand during this spring and summer will be far greater than ever, and that orders should be placed immediately with Ford Dealers as a means of protection against delay in securing your Ford Car or Truck or Fordson Tractor.

DEALERS PREDICT SPRING SHORTAGE

Ford Agents Urge Prospects to Place Orders for Early Delivery

Indications that the spring of 1924 will see a repetition of the conditions that have marked every spring for years past, when the demand for automobiles is greater than the capacity of the factories, are seen by the local Ford dealers, who are advising their clients to place their orders for cars now in order to make sure of delivery on the dates when they want them.

It is pointed out that the spring is the time when most people decide to buy motor cars, and the resultant flood of orders leads to uncertainty in the deliveries, and even with the plans for increased production of Fords this year it is stated by the factory officials that many dealers are already finding it necessary to specify later dates on delivery of certain types.

Those who intend to buy cars are, therefore, urged to place their orders now and to take advantage of the dealers' first opportunity to make delivery.

The range of Ford models this season, dealers declare, is stimulating normal demand far beyond that of any previous year.

Experienced Analyst

Clark's appointment went into effect on January 1st. In his selection the national trade body has chosen a man seemingly well equipped for the task from his practical acquaintance with the automobile industry, his experience as a newspaper man and his quite extensive work in the analysis of business conditions in this and another industry.

As a member of a navy family his father having been a naval officer and his brother now being captain of the U. S. Battleship Maryland, now anchored in Los Angeles habor, Clark has traveled widely. His early business experience had to do with the analysis of production costs for the great Copper Queen mine in Arizona, in connection with which he got out a weekly copper page for the Bisbee Review. During the Villa and Caranza troubles on the Mexican border, he acted as correspondent for several of the big eastern and far western papers.

On his return from overseas service, during the World War, as a captain, Clark entered the motor car retail trade in New York City, his work having mainly to do with trade analyses, his tabulations of them being even now still in demand.

Lure of the Pacific

The lure of the Pacific coast was always strong in him. Accordingly, he seized the chance to get to the home of his fond desire by accepting the position of advance man for the New York American Transcontinental Caravan, and landed at Santa Monica last autumn, having driven all the way from New York in his own car. To make a long story short, Clark refused several flattering eastern offers so as to accept this N. A. C. C. appointment, so as to assure himself a home and work more to his liking on the Pacific coast.

Clark's present headquarters are at Los Angeles, though his duties will keep him traveling most of the time between San Diego and Seattle.

Incidentally the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce plans to have a field representative in each federal reserve district.

400,000 IN INDUSTRY

Among the industries in the United States, the production of motor vehicles now stands third. More than 400,000 workers are directly dependent on it for livelihood.

Purchase of Auto Great Step Into New Success! Good Investment For All

When you start out among the automobile selling establishments of Glendale to buy a car, you are taking your longest and most important step toward success. Ten years ago it was remarked: "He made good and bought a car." Comment now runs: "He bought a car and made good."

Those folks who just a few years ago were bewailing the fact that they couldn't afford a motor car are now the first to agree that they couldn't afford not to have one.

The employer who used to proclaim that his best workmen were the ones that stayed at home always with their families has given place to the modern business manager who knows that his most dependable workers are the ones who take their families auto riding evenings and Sundays.

The banker and credit man long ago ceased looking askance upon the man of moderate means who was bold enough to purchase an automobile. Such a purchase is no longer extravagance. It is a mark of capability and intelligence.

In this day of rapid movement the choice, to own a car or not to own one, does not exist for the forward looking man. A man of ambition who wishes to make a success of his life positively must avail himself of this modern vehicle of accomplishment.

Intensive competition and improved factory methods have combined to place some form of four wheeled motor vehicle within reach of any man or woman of sufficient stamina to hold a steady job. The modern wage standard has been created to meet a living standard that includes an automobile. The ownership of a car is not only necessary—it is feasible.

Automobiles make modern business and social life a possibility. They possess the magic power of lengthening life, for the hours they save that were formerly wasted in the humdrum of "getting there" can now be used in doing something interesting after one arrives. Automobiles give employers a wider field from which to select efficient helpers, and furnish employes a vast scope in which to seek better jobs.

Automobiles bring the ocean beaches and the snow-clad mountains to our door-steps and attune the hearts of our wives and children to a hymn of joy and contentment.

Hail the automobile, monarch of all that's worth while today!

BUYERS WANT TO SEE NEW PAIGES

Latest Models Cut in Price as Factory Turns Out Many More Cars

Delivery of the new Paige models is expected shortly by Ralph B. Bliss, 219 West Colorado street, Glendale distributor, who has already had many enquiries for the details regarding the latest Paige products that are to be placed on sale at a substantial reduction in the prices that have prevailed in the past.

The price cut has been made possible through the completion of the Jewett factory, thus permitting the Paige organization to devote that space which had been used for Jewett construction to building Paiges, and so increasing the output, with a consequent economy in cost.

Two new models will be featured, declares F. S. Paden, sales manager of the Bliss organization. These will be the standard model, which will not carry any extra equipment, and the other will be the de luxe model, which will be fitted up with all the extras that anyone could desire.

Some slight changes have been made in the radiator's appearance, but Mr. Paden states that the Paige quality is built into exery nut and bolt of the new models. Business in Jewett cars, he says, is steadily growing and the local agency looks for a record volume of business this year.

'SILENT POLICEMAN'

One of the newest types of "silent policemen" to warn motorists at dangerous street intersections and bad curves is a convex green glass lamp, protected by a stout iron framework, protruding a few inches above the road. The lamp produces an effect of heavy mist, making low visibility, and the motorist is startled to see apparently on the ground a round dull glow.

OLDS LEADS WAY OVER RATON PASS

Snow Drifts Are Powerless to Halt Model 30 on Long Trip

Breaking the trail through the snow drifts that choked Raton Pass between Colorado and New Mexico, an Oldsmobile Model 30 Sedan showed the way to dozens of other cars that were halted on the Colorado side of the pass, and a still more remarkable example of the Oldsmobile's power was reported when, leaving Socorro, N. M., where many other cars were held up, it passed a truck that was clearing snow from the roads and traveled twenty-three miles while the truck covered two miles.

The report of the Olds performance is contained in a letter received by C. H. Hunter, 208 West Broadway, Glendale dealer, from Charles Zinsser, 5128 Butler street, Pittsburgh, Pa., who started on his trip west just after he had bought the car from a Pittsburgh dealer.

On the road between Pittsburgh and St. Louis, Mr. Zinsser states that he "had her up to sixty-five miles an hour" and made everything else on the road eat his dust. The car covered an average of 188 miles a day, through December weather all the way, but rain and snow were powerless to halt the sturdy Olds, and Mr. Hunter claims that any Olds can start right in and duplicate every part of the performance in which Mr. Zinsser takes such pride.

WHY CONGESTION

For every mile of public road in the United States there are 4.61 automobiles. In the total mileage of public roads, Texas, with 167,000 miles, leads. Other states, well up in the list are as follows: Oklahoma, 134,263; Kansas, 128,552; Missouri, 111,520; Minnesota, 107,103; North Dakota, 106,523, and Iowa, 104,082.

PACKARD'S SALES ARE INCREASING

Demand for Latest Models Growing as Motorists Realize Values

Reports from all over this territory, reaching W. H. Daniel, of the Dixie Packard Co., 510 East Broadway, Packard dealer, show that the demand for the Packard Straight Eight, the firm's latest and most sensational contribution to the automotive industry, is increasing at a surprising rate, and deliveries are now coming through at a rate that permits the dealers to care for the customers' needs.

Besides the demand for the Straight Eight, Mr. Daniel declares, the sales of the Single Six are also climbing steadily in his own particular territory, and people are coming to realize more and more, he says, that the Packard is the last word in automobile service. "It fills every need of the motorist, no matter how exacting he may be. It is handsome in appearance, economical in handling, and it meets every traffic condition, whether in the crowded streets of the city or on the open roads. The Packard is the least expensive car, as it is built to last and to deliver service every day it is in operation."

WILLYS-KNIGHTS GOAL IS 300,000

Plans for 1924 Demand Huge Increase in Output Over Last Year

"With a record of more than 200,000 Overland and Willys-Knight cars produced during the past twelve months, and the goal set at 300,000 for 1924, the Willys-Overland company establishes its claim to recognition in the front ranks of the automobile industry," says George T. Smith, of Smith-Sloan, Inc., 228 South Brand boulevard, local Willys-Knight and Overland distributors.

"The production mark at the factory rose steadily until we reached the peak during May, June and July, when 65,000 cars, the greatest three-month record in the history of the plant, were turned out. The 1923 total raised the entire output of Willys-Overland history to 1,132,217, the millionth car rolling out of the factory in June.

"But that's all ancient history now. We are selling more cars than ever before, and the number of requests for demonstrations, especially of the new models, is increasing daily. As the production record for 1923 doubled that of 1922, and as there was not a month but what the record for the corresponding period of the previous year was surpassed, so we are endeavoring to beat the record of 1923 in the current year, and, judging from our January business, we will succeed."

BIG SIX GROWTH IN SALES SHOWN

Studebaker's Cross Country Touring Ability Wins Host of Friends

The spread of the long distance touring habit that characterizes the motoring fraternity of the country has resulted in the doubling of sales of the Big Six Studebaker in the past year, according to Robert L. Conover, sales manager of Packer Auto Co., 245 South Brand boulevard, Studebaker dealers in this territory, and he attributes this fact to the growing realization that the Big Six is preeminently the car for cross country trips, because of its ability to "stand the gaff" under any and every touring condition.

"When a car proves its worth on a cross country trip" Mr. Conover says, "it is logical to believe that it will prove a reliable and sturdy car for city use, where it is not called on to meet the hard going of unpaved roads, mountain trails and similar conditions, and people turn to the Studebaker for the reason that they realize its merit and its dependability in the face of every test that it may be called on to face."

Mr. Conover points out that the Studebaker organization has never yet attempted to cheapen the quality built into its cars, and the buyer of a Studebaker is assured of reliable and honest construction from bumper to bumper.

Cast Iron Sleeve Is Sunk in Old Cylinders

The following method of repairing scored cylinders is somewhat similar to the method employed for inserting steel liners in aluminum cylinder blocks. The scored cylinder is rebored to about one-eighth inch larger diameter and a cast iron sleeve is shrunk in and bored internally to the original cylinder diameter.

It is claimed for this process that it obviates the necessity for reboring all the cylinders and fitting new pistons, rings, piston pins, etc., while the correct ratio of valve area to cylinder volume is also maintained.

Five Don'ts For Drivers Will Save Repair Bills

Don't use a piece of wire in place of a fuse, except in cases of great emergency. A fuse is intended as a safety valve to protect the more expensive parts of the electric system, and when a wire is used the cause of the blown fuse may cause considerable damage. Find the cause as soon as possible and remove it.

Don't press the foot button which connects the starting motor in a half-hearted manner; press it all the way down. Insufficient pressure not only damages the contacts of the starting switch, by causing arcing, but sometimes injures the starting motor by causing the Bendix drive to jam.

Don't apply oil or grease on a commutator of the generator or motor. Theoretically, every moving part should be lubricated, but on the commutator a lubricant retards the passage of the current.

Don't continue to spin the engine with the starting motor if it does not start after the first few turns, or the battery will rapidly be drained. It should be remembered that it takes about twenty times as long to replace the current to the battery which is used for starting. If the engine does not start after a few turns, there is something wrong, either in the ignition or carburetion; look for it and overcome it.

Don't use emery cloth on the commutator of the generator or motor, because, in addition to being a conductor of electricity, the emery also imbeds itself in the commutator, producing rapid wear.

FOR BELT EFFICIENCY

Try the fan occasionally to see if the belt is coming loose, as a loose belt allows the fan to slip. It prevents the water from being properly cooled. If the fan can be moved easily, the belt needs tightening.

and the top of the hill leading into Hollywood.

"There is no other 200-mile trip from Glendale I know of that combines so perfectly the elements of easy driving and attractive surroundings as this one," Mr. Clark said.

The Maxwell car in The Glendale Evening News "travelogue" made the trip in excellent shape. There was not a bit of trouble of any kind and the journey was both comfortable and enjoyable.

Avoid Excessive Use Of Choker in Starting

First, avoid excessive use of the "choker." After starting give the engine time to warm up somewhat before driving.

Second, use a radiator cover or provide other means to allow your motor to warm up more rapidly and also to run at a higher operating temperature. A cold running motor dilutes lubricating oil much more rapidly than a hot one because all of the fuel injected into the cylinders does not burn up. Some of it finds its way into the oil pan. Heat aids perfect combustion and the fuel which has found its way into the crank-case will be driven off through the breather by a hot motor.

Third, avoid idling for long periods or excessively slow driving. At very low speeds objectionable suction sets in tending to increase dilution.

Fourth, keep your motor in good mechanical condition. Your oil consumption will indicate whether it is or not. A motor in good mechanical condition may dilute readily at idling speeds and in city driving, but in cross-country higher speed service it will burn up a very preceptible amount of the oil.

If, however, in both low and high speed service the oil level gauge does not indicate an apparent consumption, the rate of raw fuel dilution is reaching a dangerous stage and the only remedy is to have the pistons and rings refitted. If the cylinders are out of round, tapered or scored, have them reground. New rings or pistons alone are not sufficient unless the cylinders are true.

Modification Made in Ruling on Auto Bonds

Modification of a recent ruling by Will H. Marsh, chief of the division of motor vehicles, whereby non-resident motorists were required to furnish a surety bond before securing an automobile license, are announced by division officials.

Marsh recently ruled that non-residents would be required to furnish a bond equal to the market value of the car, holding that only by this means could Californians be protected from fraud sales.

Under the modified plan certificates of title on cars registered in Michigan, Pennsylvania, Missouri, Indiana and Colorado will be accepted, while non-resident applicants who are able to show a paid-up lease contract from the original seller will be granted a California license upon presentation of a registration certificate issued in the name of the applicant.

Non-residents able to furnish a personal bond signed by two responsible freeholders who furnish a sworn affidavit setting forth the value of their real property in California, will likewise be granted a license. All modifications, however, will be subject to verification of the engine number and proper identification of the applicant.

In lieu of the above methods a surety bond, equal to the market value of the car and executed by some surety company, will be required, it was stated.

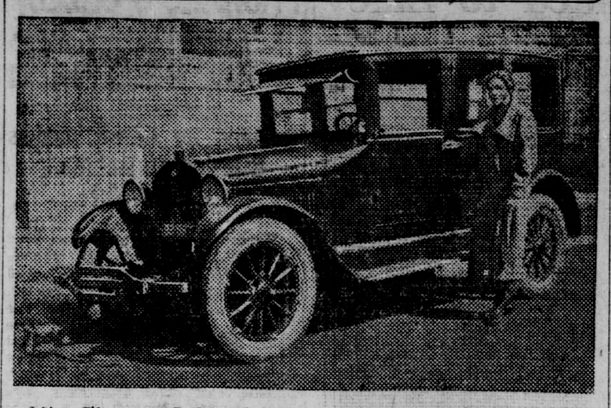
Drives Reo to Victory



Miss Florence I. Morrissey of Chicago wins contest staged by Automobile Trade association to encourage better driving practice and stricter compliance with traffic regulations. Miss Morrissey drove a Reo Model B Sedan in the contest, earning the title of Chicago's Master Driver.

Diluted Motor Oils Found in Cylinders

Admixture of fuel with the lubricating oil in the crankcase of the motor is an evil that exists in all classes of cars regardless of make or model. It is present and must be tolerated. Careful observation for the detection of its first symptoms, together with a few precautions will, as a rule avoid real trouble.

The uderlying cause of dilution is directly traceable to the rather heavy motor fuel obtainable today, fuel containing ingredients that are slow burning and hard to ignite. The thinning of the motor oil is due to unburned fuel which has worked past the pistons into the crankcase in the form of fuel vapor and in coming in contact with lubrication oil it is absorbed, reducing the body of the oil and impairing its lubricating qualities.

All motor oils are subject to dilution. For a given per cent of fuel admixture, heavy grades of oil are reduced in body more rapidly than lighter grades. Consequently, in a motor deisgned to handle a light or medium grade of oil, the use of a heavy oil will not appreciably retard this tendency and, on the other hand, may lead to other more serious difficulties.

To start a cold motor a rich mixture is required until the motor is thoroughly heated up. In order to quicken this warming-up period, the human tendency is to inject an excessive quantity of raw gasoline into the cylinders by use of the "choker." By careless use of the "choker," it is possible to force several ounces of raw gasoline into the lubricating system in the first three or four minutes of starting.

Two Types of Gas Engines Explained

There are two types of gasoline engines, one comprising that type which has a power stroke revolution, which is termed the two-stroke or two-cycle type, and the other which has a power stroke every other revolution, termed the four-stroke or Otto cycle. The former is rarely used in motor vehicles.

It can readily be understood that four events must take place within the cylinder to complete the cycle; expansion of the gases, exhause of the spent gases, inlet of the fresh charge and finally compression of the fresh charge to prepare it for expansion. These four events take place between the piston head and the head of the cylinder and must take place in proper sequence. This is made possible by the valves and the valve-operating mechanism. The valves control the inlet of the fresh charge and the exhaust of the spent gases, functioning during two of the events occurring in the cylinder. Each event taking place requires one stroke of the piston, and, as the piston must make two strokes to complete one evolution of the crankshaft, two revolutions of the latter are necessary to complete the cycle of operations.

In fairness to others never judge them by your own standard.

TUJUNGA

LEGION BUILDING TO BE DEDICATED

Bolton Hall to Be Renamed At Ceremony Planned For February 12

Bolton hall will cease to exist and Legion hall will take its place as a community gathering place February 12, when the Monte Vista Post No. 250 of the American Legion will re-name and rededicate Tujunga's first permanent building.

Originally Bolton hall was built and dedicated to the social life of the colony of Little Lands, as the townsite was originally named. The hall was built of stone and served as a civic center and still does, to a great extent. It was built eleven years ago when the town was first started.

Three years ago Monte Vista Post members undertook the purchase of the building and grounds, which are located at El Centro street and Sunset boulevard. Since that time it has been used as club rooms and headquarters for the Legion. Other organizations, including the Tujunga Chamber of Commerce and various women's clubs, meet there.

An addition to the main building has been built for the use of the auxiliary. A reception in the nature of a housewarming will be held on the afternoon of February 12 and the hall will then be rechristened. In the evening State Commander Collins is expected to be present as well as other prominent members of the Legion and auxiliary.

Favor Torrens System

A move has been made by the Tujunga Valley Realty board to get valley property listed and registered under the Torrens title system. Arrangements have been made to reduce the cost to a minimum by getting a large number of owners to unite in one proceeding, P. J. Blake, president of the board; C. C. Buck, secretary, and M. V. Hartranft, chairman of the committee, have charge of the campaign.

Emil Kirchner, president of the Tujunga Valley bank, has started a subscription fund for the relief of the children of Germany with a contribution of $150.

The Tujunga Woman's club has subscribed the full quota of 50 cents per member toward the entertainment fund for the national convention to be held in Los Angeles in June. An old fashioned dance will be given by the club February 14 at Legion hall. Costumes of the colonial era will be in style.

Open Seelig Store

The Tujunga link in the Sam Seelig stores chain will be opened Saturday, February 2, in the building just completed at 145 West Michigan avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Sweet recently entertained at the Fine Arts Guild studio on Michigan avenue in honor of their daughter, Mrs. Hurley, of Los Angeles. Mrs. C. E. Kimpel and Jack Bloodgood furnished music for dancing.

The Mystic Maidens, a group of young girls, recently went on a hike in Haines Canyon with boy friends, chaperoned by Professor Axe, Games, stunts and a picnic lunch were enjoyed.

Loretta Wiggins recently gave a surprise party for her sister Louise at their home, 508 Vitrus street. Among those present were: Maud Morgan, Marie Chatfield, Mildred Elsey, Ella O'Rourke, Louise Greer, James Greer, Edward and Ernest Hodnut, Douglas Day, Ray Loos, Junior Farrell, Bob O'Rourke and Doty Brooks. Games were played and refreshments sevred.

Mr. and Mrs. Sumner H. Adams visited the sister of the former at her Whittier home last week.

Simple Tool Aids In Tightening Up Studs

The usual method of driving studs is to place two nuts on the end and then turn on the outer one until the stud tightens into place. This method is satisfactory sometimes, but if the stud is a tight fit, both nuts will turn together or they will jam together so tightly that it will be difficult to remove them. By using a tool, a positive grip is secured on the stud and the tool is easily removed. The end of a roundbar is drilled and tapped to fit the stud. At the bottom of this hole another hole is drilled crosswise and taper reamed for the insertion of a taper pin. In use, the pin is inserted in the hole as far as it will go, and the stud is screwed in. After the stud is located, the tool may easily be released by driving out the pin by striking the small end. The tool may be left round on the outer end and fitted with a T handle, or it may be squared for use with a wrench.

UTILIZING OLD TUBES

Floor mats can be made by converting a few inner tubes. The old tubes are first cut into strips by wetting the rubber and cutting with an old razor. The strips are then woven or interlaced with each other, basket fashion. The end strips are made double width and turned over. Those strips should be cemented in place. A row of brass rivets placed around the edges, improves the appearance greatly, in addition to making the mats stronger.

"Out of Fix?" Call the Doctor

If you want to give your automobile the same kind of personal, conscientious attention you would expect a doctor to give your body, if it were "out of fix," the owners of the Glendale Auto Repair Shop advise you to bring the car to them.

This firm was recently started in a small room at 119 North Harvard. There is space for handling only a limited number of cars at a time, which makes it necessary that the company give immediate attention to each job, and get it finished and out of the way at the earliest possible date. Working night and day to accomplish this result is the regular thing in the Glendale Auto Repair Shop.

Nearly all the work is done personally by the two members of the firm. O. Chatfield, who has enjoyed the widest kind of experience in the automobile business in Los Angeles during the past two years, is one of the partners. The other is J. Wight, who came to Glendale five months ago from Toronto, Canada, where for more than four years he held responsible positions in the American LaFrance Fire Engine company, possibly the most famous makers of fire engines in the world.

"Guaranteed service on any kind of car is our motto," said Mr. Chatfield. "We will do our own work throughout, do it right and make our prices right, too."

Extensive Improvements At Broadway Station

The success that follows conscientious service and good selling methods has come during the past three months to the Broadway Super-Service Station, 814 East Broadway, which is now one of the busiest stations in Glendale. At the present time extensive improvements and re-modeling are under way to improve the service, and since the present ownership took charge of the place last October constant betterments and increases to stock and equipment have been made.

The station is complete in every way, and has experts in every department, guaranteeing satisfactory work. Hercules and Propello gasoline are sold, and all kinds of oils are handled. The station's gasoline sales are especially active.

A room is filled with automobile accessories, a larger and more complete line being carried than is usually found in a service station. The company handles Kelly-Springfield, Miller and Firestone tires and tubes, these brands having been proved to possess the highest quality and to be most popular with the motorists.

The company is agent for Cooper batteries, and maintains a battery repair and recharging department, specializing on eight-hour recharging service. The tire and tube repairing is in the hands of experts, and prompt and efficient service is given in this department. Daily News Letter

General News and Gossip from Staff Writers at Home and Abroad.

By FRANK SAVAGE
For International News Service.

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—With radio movies looming on the horizon, a transatlantic dirigible line either from London or Madrid to New York an immediate possibility, and with both this country and Britain laying plans for aerial circumnavigation of the globe, a full program for 1924 seems to be in the making for those of a scientific turn of mind.

Innumerable other advances, of course, are being made both in America and abroad. Some of less spectacular nature are none the less important. Among these are progress in medicine and improvement of methods in various other well-established branches.

The successful isolation of living tissue for a period of twelve years, recently announced by officials of the Rockefeller Institute, for example, may be listed not as a sensational development, nor discovery, but as a reward for the illimitable patient experimentation and observation involved, whole new vistas of medical lore and data for the study and prevention of disease may come to view.

On January 17 this living fragment of chicken flesh completed its twelfth year of "life in vitro," which means that reposing in a special dish its cells have received and assimilated food and discharged the surplus precisely as though they were part of a living, crowing, cratching rooster—over a period of a dozen years.

A normal question would be: "What is the value of such an experiment—what good does it do?"

Science answers that, for one thing, it proves immortality! Not spiritual immortality, but physical immortality—for life could be maintained in vitro indefinitely, they assert.

For another thing it permits precise and accurate study of cancer. Cancer is a fatal foe to humanity because it is an uncontrollable growth. With a cancer growing in vitro science can record, without guessing, the effect of radium, of X-rays and of other treatment.

The experiment doesn't, however, hold out any possibility of extending human life indefinitely. Death, as great scientsits have said, is the price we pay for our complex bodies; chiefly because elimination is not so successful as assimilation.

"Metal Mike" has just successfully guided a big British ship across the Atlantic. His brain is composed of a whirling metal disk, assisted in its functioning by numerous gears, eccentrics and various other mechanical contrivances. His nerves are fine strung wires. But he was able to keep the cunarder Laconia within one-sixth of a degree on her course—much closer than any human hand can steer her. "Metal Mike" is otherwise known as the Sperry gyro pilot. He is able to operate mainly because of forces set up by rotation of the earth. Captain E. T. Britten, the master, while appreciative of Mike's capabilities and reliability, nevertheless requires that a quartermaster "stand by" at all times, in case Mike gets metallic apoplexy.

When engineers decided recently that a "dead spot" existed over Manhattan WEAF, local broadcasting station, tried super-tubes. They penetrated the resisting area with ease. Prior to this a test proved the tubes able to transmit radio waves to a receiving set located in the vehicular tunnel under the Hudson river—right through steel walls, water, earth and other impedimenta.

Dr. Francis C. Wood of Columbia university has announced the discovery of a new type of X-ray tube for the treatment of cancer. While curative powers are not enhanced, speed of the operation is reduced from hours to minutes, it is claimed.

Man Ray, Rumanian photographer extraordinary, is due in New York the latter part of this month to demonstrate a method of making pictures without use of camera or lense. A time exposure on a sensitized plate, in a dark room, with red bulbs burning, are the chief elements.

Cautious announcement, obviously designed to stay over-enthusiasm, was made recently by Dr. R. A. Dochez, Columbia, of a serum for scarlet fever. Dr. Dochez did not promise a definite cure, but declared experiments had shown "certain promise."

'Millionaire Kid's' Wife Charged In Suit

Luella Gear

Luella Gear, actress wife of Byron D. Chandler, known to Broadway as the "Millionaire Kid," is the "soulmate" of Stanley C. Ridges, comedian, it is charged by Mrs. Ridges, in an affidavit filed in support of her motion for alimony. A suit of separation she filed against Ridges is now pending. Friends of Ridges and Miss Gear deny the charges.

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

— BY HOWARD R. GARIS —

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE CELLAR DOOR

The Fuzzy Fox sat in the den of the Bob Cat, looking very unpleasant and cross. The Bob Cat wasn't much better, for he looked cross and unpleasant, which is very much the same thing.

"Well," snarled the Fox, "we didn't catch Uncle Wiggily after all; did we?"

"What's the use of asking me that?" meouwed the Bob Cat with his silly little tail. "You know we didn't catch that rabbit. I wish I had him here right now to nibble his ears!"

"So do I!" barked the Fuzzy Fox. Then the Fox happened to look out of the den of the Bob Cat. "Why, you have a sliding cellar door; haven't you?" asked the Fox in surprise.

"What's that? Do you mean my cellar door is sliding, the way Uncle Wiggily slid on the ice and got away from us yesterday?" asked the Bob Cat. "I never knew my cellar door could slide."

"No! No! Nonsense! Of course not!" laughed the Fox. "I don't mean your cellar door is sliding by itself. But I mean you have one of those slanting cellar doors—the kind the animal boys and girls slide down when they play."

"Oh, yes, it's that kind of a door all right," admitted the Bob Cat, gloomily, "but what of it? That won't help us catch Uncle Wiggily!"

"I am not so sure of that—I rather think it may help us to catch that bunny rabbit," whispered the Fox.

"How?" asked the Bob Cat, sitting on his silly little tail.

"I'll tell you," answered the Fox.

Looking around the den, to make sure no one heard him, the Fox went on:

"We'll put a sign on your cellar door, saying: 'You are all invited to slide down me! Come on.'"

"What good will that do?" asked the Bob Cat.

"Well, Uncle Wiggily will come past here," went on the Fox. "He will see the invitation on the door and he will run up to take a slide, for he acts very young at times. Yes, that rabbit will come to slide down your cellar door when he sees the sign telling him to do so."

"But what good will that do—how can we catch him?" asked the Bob Cat.

"Very easily," barked the Fox. "We will fix that cellar door so that as soon as anybody runs up it to slide down the door will break and let them fall through into the cellar. You and I will be waiting in the cellar under your sliding door. And when Uncle Wiggily breaks through, we'll grab him and nibble his ears."

"It sounds good," remarked the Bob Cat.

"Uncle Wiggily's ears will taste better!" laughed the Fox.

So the two bad chaps made ready to catch the rabbit. They gnawed through the wood underneath the Bob Cat's cellar door, so that if any one so much as stepped on the door it would break down with them. Then the Fox and Bob Cat hid themselves in the cellar to wait, first having made a sign and fastened it on the outside of the door.

Now, as it happened, Uncle Wiggily was out walking that day with Curly and Floppy Twistytail, the two little pig boys. Soon the rabbit gentleman and his friends drew near to the den of the Bob Cat. Outside the den was the cellar door, made into a trap.

"Oh, look, there's a sign on that door!" grunted Floppy.

"What does the sign say on the cellar door, Curly?" asked Uncle Wiggily of the other piggie boy, for Uncle Wiggily wanted to see how well Curly could read.

"It says come and slide on me and have some fun!" squealed Curly.

"Oh, come on, let's do it!" grunted Floppy. "Let's have a slide on the cellar door, Uncle Wiggily!"

The piggie boys started for the sliding cellar door on the run.

"Wait!" cried the bunny. "We must be careful! This may be a trap!" Uncle Wiggily was a wise old rabbit. "I never saw such a kind invitation on the Bob Cat's cellar door before," spoke the bunny. "It will be well for us to try it before we slide."

"How can we try it before we slide?" asked Curly.

"With a big snow ball," answered the rabbit uncle. "We'll roll a big snow ball up the cellar door and watch it slide down. If the snow ball slides all right then it will be safe for us."

So the piggie boys and Uncle Wiggily rolled the big snow ball. They pushed it up the slanting cellar door, being careful not to step on the door themselves. Hidden in the cellar, beneath the door, the Fox and Bob Cat waited.

"Now Uncle Wiggily is on the door!" whispered the Fox, hearing a noise. "Soon he will fall through and we'll nibble his ears!"

They pushed it up the cellar door

But just then the big, heavy snow ball crashed through the trap cellar door. Down into the cellar fell the snow ball. It fell on the Fox and it fell on the Bob Cat.

"Wow! Wow!" howled the bad chaps as the snow ball banged them and knocked them flat to the floor. "Wow! Wow!"

"Ha! Ha!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. "I thought that was a trap. It is well that we did not slide down that door, piggie boys!" Curly and Floppy thought so, too. And when the rabbit gentleman bought them some sour milk lollypops they were very happy.

A slight break in one of the fine parts of our linotype machine caused about two hours' delay today. Reading notices not appearing today will have a place tomorrow.

Glendale is always pleased when any of her sons or daughters make good and from all reports she will soon have cause to be proud of Don and Lee Goode, Jack Wagner and Bob Richey, local singers, who have organized the Globe quartet.

For Sale, must be sold today or tomorrow, finest business corner on Broadway, 50 by 150 and $5800 takes it. This is $1500 cheaper than any other business corner in Glendale can be bought for.

Dinner Stories

In a certain coal mining town a by-law had been passed prohibiting the tossing of pigeons in the main street, says Reynolds's Newspaper, London. A miner, who was unaware of the new by-law, was just in the act of tossing his favorite pigeon, when he was approached by a constable, who spent a great deal of time explaining the new by-law.

The collier placed the pigeon on the floor, and, looking at it, said: "Neaw Rupert, owd lad, that's heered what yon copper ses, so tha'll hev to walk whoam."

Jackson was of a very mathematical turn of mind, and was always engaged in making intricate calculations on paper, says Judge. His marriage was to take place on Friday, but he suggested to his prospective mother-in-law that it had better take place on Thursday.

"Why do you wish it changed?" she asked suspiciously.

"Well," said he. "I have been making calculations, and I find that my silver wedding will come on Saturday evening, and that would never do, as that is the evening I have to go to the lodge."

On the Spur of the Moment

By ROY K. MOULTON

THE IMPERMANENT WAVE

He once did sport a fiery mane,
His reddish hair had waves;
His mass of curls drove men insane,
They made the girls his slaves.

But that was many years ago,
When he was but a lad,
And times have changed a lot, you know—
So has the hair he had.

The tide recedes; it ebbs and flows,
Just like his "waves"—so called,
Now when he doffs his hat, he shows

FAILURES OF AN OPTIMIST

I have never seen a dead donkey.

Nobody has been able to explain to me why a dog barks at a passing vehicle, and the dog won't tell me.

I have spent years building the best mouse trap in the world, but nobody has made a beaten path to my door.

Every time I buy the latest atlas somebody starts a new kingdom or grabs a new boundary line, and I can never catch up.

I never see a show when I can buy a good seat at the box office, for I have a suspicion then that the show doesn't amount to much.

There are glad tidings in store, so be not downhearted nor ill at ease. It will all be over in a short time. Taps will be sounded in 1933. Of course it is a long time to wait, but we have the promise that the old world is going to do a flop in 1933, like a hooched gentleman falling off a scenic railway.

The British Society of Astrologers has fixed it all up very nicely for us. They have wrapped up our fate and tied it with blue baby-ribbon, and all we have to do is to accept it. The society has cast a horoscope which, this time, turns out to be a horrorscope.

They don't say much about what is going to happen between now and 1926, and so we are left at liberty to expect anything, which lends an element of surprise to the situation.

From 1926 on, however, the world is going to shimmy itself into a state of nervous prostration such as it has never known before. The horoscope says:

"It will be a succession of plagues, famines, wars, riots, revolutions, floods, shipwrecks, earthquakes and failures. The planets Mars and Mercury will be in conjunction." Tough stuff, eh? The regular old stuff with "kick" and everything.

* * *

A faux pas has been called to our attention by a man, who requests that his name be not mentioned. A friend wishing to make him an expensive gift, and a useful one at the same time, bought a solid gold pocket flask. "That," says the man, "would have been all right and much appreciated, but the poor nut went and had my name engraved on the flask and now what use is it to me? I can't carry it for fear of dropping it somewhere, and if I leave it home and the house is searched they will find it. I have buried it in a secret place about four miles from my house."

* * *

We have neglected to mention the fact before, but the New Jersey prophet who promised to bring about the end of the world on December 16 failed to keep his word. It is a pity to disappoint a lot of people that way.

One genius has found a way to run an automobile on onion juice, but how much juice is there in a modern 15-cent onion?

EAGLE ROCK

CURFEW TO RING FOR EAGLE ROCK

Police Will Enforce Law to Protect Juveniles on Streets of City

"Curfew shall not ring tonight" has too long been the motto in Eagle Rock, believes Sergeant J. M. Level of the night police detail. There is in Los Angeles a 9 o'clock curfew ordinance and he means to inforce it in this community.

Four extra men have been assigned to night duty, with orders to investigate any automobiles that give evidence of "petting parties" or in other ways look suspicious. If the occupants appear to be under 16 years of age, the curfew limit, they will be brought to the police station and questioned, their parents subsequently being notified of their conduct.

This is not a narrow-minded attitude, feels Sergeant Level, but one positively necessary in order to cope with the criminal situation. Children under the curfew limit should not be on the streets after 9 o'clock, unattended, he feels, particularly in lonely and isolated spots where they are subject to their own or others' folly.

With the "badge bandit" and many another desperate criminal at large, ready to assault or kill for a few dollars or a moment's whim, Sergeant Level considers he is acting in co-operation with lawful elements of the community, in enforcing the curfew ordinance, and asks that parents meet him half way in the protection of their children.

Tickets Sell Fast

Already orders have been received for over 100 of the 500 tickets that are selling at $5 each, to raise funds for the Occidental college "bowl," reports W. L. Miller of 2122 Colorado boulevard, in charge of sales. The tickets provide admission to the United Theatre on February 19, when a big benefit performance will be given.

All funds will be turned over to President Remsen du Bois Bird of the college, Mr. Miller states, to be combined with funds already in his possession for this purpose, and work will probably begin on the $200,000 project in the early spring.

Business and professional men of Eagle Rock are reported to be lining up solid in the bowl campaign, all realizing that when completed it will be a great magnet, drawing to this community the best elements of the Southland.

To Improve Car Service

Starting March 1 the "E" line of the Los Angeles Railway company will offer better service to Eagle Rock commuters, is the promise made by officials of the company to H. H. Maxson, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce transportation committee, which has waged a long fight to this end.

The new service is only a partial relief, according to Mr. Maxson, the hope of the committee being to secure from the transportation company an "Eagle Rock special" leaving Sixth street and Broadway, Los Angeles, at 5 o'clock, daily, with two others leaving at 5:30 and 6 o'clock, respectively.

The plan is to have these cars make all the stops to Avenue 28 and Dayton avenue, then make no stops to West View avenue, wherefrom the usual stops would again be made. The committee believes a saving of fifteen minutes on the trip could be made to commuters in this way, resulting in a new influx of residents to Eagle Rock.

AND NO WISHBONE

Those who were unable to have turkey for Christmas will find some satisfaction in the thought that Gov. Donahey of Ohio did not have one, either. According to word from Columbus he had pickled pigs' feet and sauer kraut. Which was the easiest way of ducking the task of dividing two drum-sticks between eleven children.

Lights Installed in Newhall Tunnel Soon

Motorists using the inland route of the state highway will be interested in information reaching the Automobile Club of Southern California to the effect that the lights are being installed in the Newhall tunnel between San Fernando and Newhall. Owing to this stretch of highway being less than eighteen feet in width in the tunnel and the fact that the bore is 435 feet in length, there has been a pronounced accident hazard.

The installation of the inverted bowl lights without glares is expected to eliminate this danger. All is ready for installation of the lights and it is expected that the work will be completed soon.

Richardson Appoints Agricultural Board

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 2.—Governor Richardson has appointed the following as members of the state board of agriculture: Sam H. Greene, San Francisco, dairyman; Fred H. Bixby, cattleman of Long Beach; William H. Brooks, Imperial county farmer; Robert A. Condee, Chino farmer.

The governor also reappointed to the board J. A. Maccomber, Tulare county farmer, and I. L. Borden of San Francisco.

Peoples Party Leader a Very Modest Man

OMAHA, Feb. 2.—"I never told a lie, I never wronged a woman, and I wouldn't wrong a constituent by promising anything, then turning my back when I become president. That's my platform."

Thus Robert S. Pointer, nominee for the presidency of the United States, accepted the nomination accorded him by the national convention of the Progressive People's party here.

He is a millionaire of South Dakota, and is the man who started the Ford-for-president boom. "I am his close personal friend," he said.

FLIVVER SCATTERS STOCK OF FRUIT

Victim's Sense of Humor Aids in Bridging Awkward Gap for Driver

Picnickers who have visited Monte Vista park, Sunland, are familiar with the diminutive old man who carries a basket on his arm and sells peanuts and fruit in the park. He is generally referred to as Dad, but he has another name, also a sense of humor.

In his spare time Dad Horton operates a fruit stand opposite the park on the main drive. A few days ago a small car appeared in the offing and it was quite evident that the lady driving it was an excellent seamstress. Either that or the car had been in the barn with Spark Plug and contracted the heebie-jeebies.

Scatters Dad's Stock

The car knocked Dad and his fruit stand for a row of salmon traps, and scattered the stock all over the town-site.

Dad cautiously picked himself up, felt gingerly of his joints and, reassured, looked at his stock. With a forlorn expression he approached the badly rattled driver, who had succeeded in calming the flivver, and asked politely, "Shall I wrap it up for you or will you eat it here?"

Moreing said he had heard Dempsey and Kearns were behind the deal, but stated he would not sell for the price offered.

CENTRAL AVE. PROPERTY OWNERS, ATTENTION!

A number of property owners on Central Avenue have examined the street as widened between Cypress and Los Feliz and have suggested that it might be well to set the curb back NOW while waiting for the condemnation proceedings on the ten-foot strip back of the sidewalk.

This means that the trees would all have to come out NOW, which is contrary to the understanding had with the property owners at the time the petitions were signed.

There is no desire on the part of anyone to abrogate this verbal agreement, but many arguments have been presented in favor of the move now.

In order to bring out all the arguments and have a free and frank discussion the matter it is deemed visable to call a meeting the owners of property between Lexington St. and San Fernando Road fronting on Central Ave., therefore said property owners are requested to be present at the Old High School Auditorium on Harvard St. at 7:30 o'clock sharp, Wednesday evening, February 6, 1924. Meeting will close promptly at 9 p. m.

MORE HOUSES FOR RENT GREAT NEED HERE

INCREASE OF METERS IS HEAVY

Total of 21,309 Connections to Date, Is Reported By J. F. M'Intyre

By AL DIX
Of The Evening News Staff.

When the books of the division of sales and collection of the public service department were closed Thursday night, they showed that a greater number of meters—both light and water—were in use in Glendale than ever before in the city's history.

A total of 21,309 meters, of which 11,968 measure electric current and 9,341 water, tell the story of Glendale's consistent advancement. There is no room for doubt. The figures are there in black and white and furnish conclusive proof of an absolutely reliable variety that our claims as to the wonderful activity in Glendale are founded on fact and not on fancy.

Great Increase

This total represents an increase of 4,228 meters, of which 1740 are water and 2488 are electric, over the amount in use at the end of January, 1923, or approximately 350 per month. According to the estimates of population based upon these figures by J. F. McIntyre, it represents an increase in population of approximately 10,000 during 1923. In the past these estimates from the public service department have been found to be quite accurate, and there is no reason to believe they are not so in this case. Mr. McIntyre says:

"When you take into consideration that over 21,000 meters must be read every month, the same amount of accounts posted

PLACE LINKS IN ENDLESS CHAIN!

Everyone Here Can Have Real Part in Making Greater Glendale

By GIL A. COWAN
Of The Evening News Staff.

California—axis of an endless chain! Such a slogan was suggested to me by a real estate man, a former railroad official, when he said that every new family means five others will follow—just like an endless chain. Yet if that statement should prove true, it would not take many years to depopulate the rest of the world.

If every family coming to southern California brings another, all will be well and good in the future of this land of ours, but presently we have every reason to believe that real estate man is right, for if you will check up on the influence you have brought to bear on others coming from the east, the chances are that you are quite some little colonizer.

Rapidly Grows

Fifty years ago there were about fifty thousand in southern California, we would roughly say. And that number likely included the Chinese, Mexicans, jackrabbits and burros. Today there are no less than two millions and maybe more, with a million concentrated in Los Angeles and another 400,000 in Los Angeles county. That shows how rapidly the endless chain of immigration has been operating.

Take in Glendale, for instance. There were 5000 people here ten years ago. Today there are surely 50,000, or a 100 per cent increase each year. It won't be

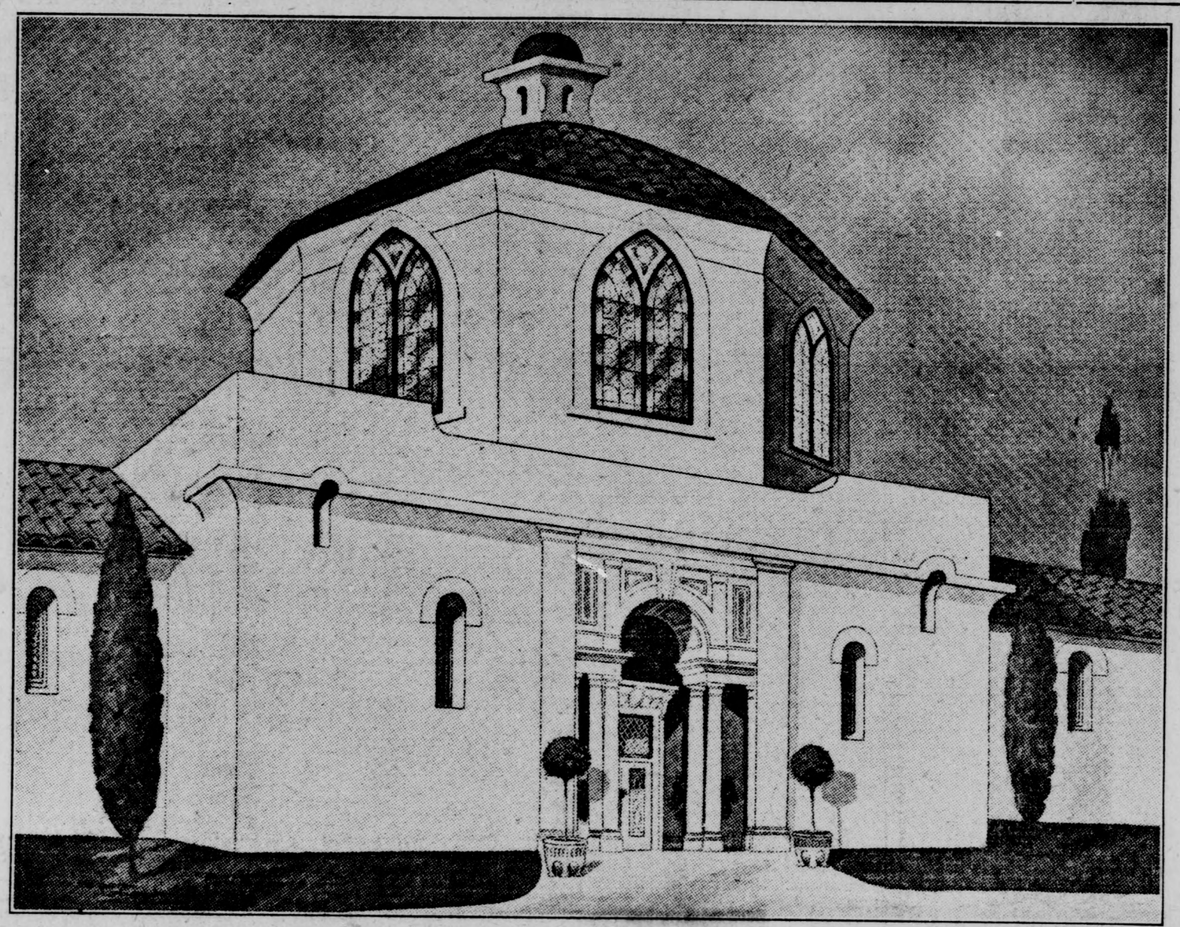
Magnificent Mausoleum Now Being Built At Grand View Memorial Park



Architect's conception of the proposed magnificent chapel, located in the center of Grand View Memorial Park mausoleum, showing the beautiful cathedral glass windows and modified Mission type of architecture that will characterize the structure.

One of the largest and finest mausoleums ever erected in the United States, containing 3400 crypts and over 1000 feet long, is rising at Grand View Memorial Park, northwest Glendale, that beautiful cemetery chosen by the American Legion of Los Angeles county as the official burial ground for their dead, states Len C. Davis, president of Grand View Memorial Park, Inc.

Located at the intersection of Grand View avenue and Glenwood road, between the Hollywood hills on the south and the Verdugo hills on the north, at an altitude of 600 feet, this cemetery occupies a site of commanding beauty, Mr. Davis points out, and offers a wonderful panorama of the San Fernando valley.

Mission Architecture

The new mausoleum will be of Mission architecture, the interior to be of selected marble and bronze, he states, with cathedral glass windows and corridors lighted from the roof, creating an illumination subdued and beautiful. A magnificent chapel located in the center of the great structure surrounded by 2000 columbariums wherein are to repose the ashes of those who chose cremation, will add further dignity and beauty to the massive edifice.

"Substantial and enduring as the pyramids, the Grand View mausoleum will have concrete foundation, floors, side walls, roof and crypts all reinforced together into one unit," says Mr. Davis, "making it stronger than as if hewed solid granite, and unshakable by any catastrophe that might befall in ages to come.

Sanitary System

"The crypts will be five feet high, each separated by a marble pilaster and sufficient in size to accommodate with ease the largest casket. The sanitary system, one of the most important in a mausoleum, is so constructed in the present instance as to continually pass a current of pure air through each crypt, resulting in dessication and not decay. Another advanced feature will be the construction of numerous private rooms containing two or more crypts, each room having a cathedral glass window.

"In order to provide for the present and future maintenance of the Grand View mausoleum, a perpetual care fund has been created, to be included in the cemetery fund and invested only in high grade securities such as government and municipal bonds, under the direction of a trust company.

In Reach of All

"This is a community mausoleum and is built in honor of the citizens of California. It is within the reach of all. By neglect of a decision on burial plans in advance of death, the burden is thrown upon relatives or friends at a time when such a decision cannot be made with calmness and deliberation. The sense of security and comfort coming to the family with mausoleum entombment is worth too much to be disregard or pass over lightly."

The word "mausoleum" was first a given a tomb erected to Mausolus, king of Caria, in Hilicarnasus, a Greek city of Asia Minor, by his widow, Artemisia, in B. C. 552. Mausoleum entombment is the oldest form of burial and has come down through the ages, from the Pyramids of Egypt to Taj Mahal of India Westminster Abbey of England, Grant's tomb on Riverside drive, New York and other great crypts where repose the presidents and noted men of the United States.

MANY SMALL HOMES AT REASONABLE FIGURE BIG NECESSITY IN GLENDALE

Families of Comparatively Small Income Seek Location; Problem to Be Discussed At Realty Meet

By H. THOMPSON RICH
Of The Evening News Staff.

With 25,000,000 families in the United States, of whom less than 2,000,000 have incomes of over $2500 a year, according to a Roger Babson report, while not 40 per cent are home owners, the housing problem in its various phases is seen to be the gravest that confronts the country today.

So serious, indeed, is this problem, that it will vie with tax reduction at the national conclave of realtors in Washington, D. C., June 3 to 6 of this year, when approximately 4000 delegates, representing every phase of the real estate business, will assemble at the nation's capital, 495 local boards of the United States and Canada making up the association.

Such is the power and influence of the National Association of Real Estate boards that the great meet is regarded as one of the most important convocations of business men scheduled to take place in the Western Hemisphere during 1924, and its conclusions are expected to find their way directly into operation throughout the length and breadth of America, in new legislation the power of their influence will command.

Most Important

President Calvin S. Coolidge of the United States has already declared in no uncertain terms that tax reduction is the most important matter before the people today. But hand in hand with tax reduction goes the housing problem, feel realtors, generally.

With less than 2,000,000 families of the country earning over $2500 a year, or $48 a week, out of a total of 25,000,000 families in the United States, it becomes obvious at once that on even the most liberal budget, $50 a month rent is the highest a family living on $2500 or less a year can afford to pay.

Need in Glendale

The great need everywhere—and it is particularly obvious in Glendale—is for houses that cost under $6000 and will rent at a fair profit for $50 or under a month. The following statement taken from the same Roger Babson report referred to above, offers material for deep thought and careful study:

"At least 75 per cent of the 170,000 dwellings built during the past two years have cost over $6000, including the land. This means that three-quarters of the new houses built are within reach of only about 10 per cent of the prospective buyers and renters. Hence the main problem of the residential building industry today is a matter of price. For each 10 per cent that the cost of a building can be reduced, the field of prospective customers will be increased by 500,000 to 1,000,000 people."

Costs to Decline

Eventually building costs will decline under pressure of the law of supply and demand. Some weakening is already seen. But the trouble is that any decided reduction in present prices will, builders feel, cause wages to tumble and slacken off business generally. This, they argue, is particularly what is not wanted.

Consider Glendale, for instance. With building on the boom, even though some may argue that prices of materials are high and wages correspondingly so, nevertheless the general result is prosperity, growth, more prosperity, more growth—a never-ending circle, to interrupt which would, indeed, be to "kill the goose that lays the golden egg."

More Cheaper Homes

What is needed, according to those who have studied the situation, local and general, is not so much to bring down building costs as to build cheaper homes and more of them. Bungalow courts, particularly, answer the housing problem and are cheap to construct, renting for very moderate figures and returning a good profit on the investment. Duplexes and apartment houses, too, are badly needed, particularly in Glendale, where it is next to impossible to rent anything at any price. And hundreds, literally thousands of $4000, $5000 and $6000 homes are needed — and will sell like the proverbial hot cakes, real estate men strongly aver.

It is the consideration of such problems as these that will characterize the Washington convention of the National Association of Real Estate boards, early in June—and the eyes of the world will almost literally be focused on their deliberations, so vital they are.

Tents Are Erected For 14th Orange Show

Tents are up for the fourteenth National Orange Show to be held in San Bernardino February 15 to 25. From now on California's greatest midwinter event will present a scene of activity, an army of men being employed in building booths, fashioning feature exhibits and arranging the decorative features.

After several years' absence from the show, announcement is made by General Manager R. H. Mack that the Santa Fe railroad company will again present one of its famous displays in the shape of a passenger train completely studded with oranges and lemons, train, engine, crew and passengers being in miniature.

The Fontana district will be represented by a miniature packing plant. The Mandarin or Chinese atmosphere will prevail, silks, satins, bamboo, Chinese dragons, temples, bridges, incense pots burning, attendants and entertainers in Chinese costume—all making one of the most gorgeous sights in America.

Communities which will exhibit include Fresno, Redlands, Riverside, Fontana, Santa Monica, Pasadena, San Gabriel Valley Associated Chambers of Commerce, Corona, Colton, Orange County, Hemet, Bloomington, Pomona, Ontario, Elephant Orchards, Mutual Orange Distributors and other fruit shipping concerns will also be represented.

The famous Santa Monica band under Tommasino has been engaged. The Wortham Shows will provide amusements. The automobile show, the industrial sec-

State Realty Officers On Tour of Valley

President Henry P. Barbour of the California Real Estate association, National Field Secretary William E. Herren, State Secretary Glenn D. Willaman, and District Vice-President Thomas W. McManus of Bakersfield are touring realty boards of the San Joaquin valley this week.

Their first meeting was at Bakersfield, Friday, January 25, with the Kern County Realty board, and on Saturday they appeared before the California Farm Land conference at Fresno, where hundreds of California realtors gathered to discuss land problems.

On Thursday noon, February 7, the state and national officers will visit the Palo Alto Realty board, and in the evening the Burlingame-San Mateo board.

Friday noon, February 8, they will address the Watsonville and Santa Cruz boards at Santa Cruz and in the evening will be the guests of the San Jose Realty board at a dinner.

This will conclude the northern tour for President Barbour who will, however, return to San Francisco, February 21, to address their annual banquet. On February 16 he will address a farm lands conference of Imperial realtors at El Centro.

Field Secretary Herren has addressed twenty-nine boards during the past three weeks, and will, in addition to the boards visited on the northern swing have dates with the following boards: Santa Barbara, Pomona, Santa Monica, San Diego, El Centro and several other cities.

4000 People Harken To Realty Speakers

According ato the Californi Real Estate association news department, state and national officers have addressed more than 4000 persons at real estate banquets during the past ninety days. At many of these engagements State Real Estate Commissioner Edwin T. Keiser has been a speaker, and also District Vice-Presidents O. A. Vickrey of Los Angeles, Charles B. Guthrie of Glendale and Everett A. White of Santa Ana.

SOCIAL HOUR TO FOLLOW MEETING

C. of C. Board to Dispose of Business Program at Tuesday Session

The February meeting of the Montrose Chamber of Commerce will be held Tuesday, the 5th, at the Montrose schoolhouse. Directors will meet at 7:30 and the regular meeting will open at 8. A social hour will follow the business session and community singing will form part of the diversion.

Montrose and La Crescenta voters may register for 1924 at the Montrose State bank at Honolulu and Montrose avenues Saturday evening from 6 to 8 o'clock, when a registrar will be stationed there.

A local Boy Scout committee was formed at a lunch meeting of Scout leaders and business men held Wednesday. This committee will have charge of Scout work in the Montrose-La Crescenta district.

Roy L. Kent of Glendale was the principal speaker. Several business men of the two communities were special guests.

A new building is being planned by Sheridan Young for his property on Honolulu avenue. Upon the completion of this building the Montrose Hardware company will move to the new location. The building will contain two store rooms, one 18 by 60 feet and one 22 by 60 feet, and will be finished in stucco.

School Term Opens

The mid-winter term of the schools begins Monday, February 4. Albert T. Blanford, principal, made this statement: "All children up to and including those who will enter the B-5 grade, living in Montrose, will attend the Montrose school. Those above B-5 will be expected to attend the La Crescenta school. Children who will be six years old before May, 1924, are of legal school age and will be admitted to the first grade. However, it is recommended that boys and girls under 6 years of age on February 4 be held over until the new fall term in September, in cases where they are just beginners. The compulsory school age is from 8 to 18. Parents with children younger than 8 may choose whether or not they shall enter school."

The Montrose school is located one block west of Ocean View on Mira Vista street. The La Crescenta building is on Los Angeles street between Montrose and Michigan avenues.

Two additional teachers will be employed, one at each school, beginning the new term, making a total of eleven. Permits for transfer from one district to another will be issued whenever possible, according to Principal Blanford. These permits must be applied for on the first day of the term. Mrs. Eyre is vice-principal and has charge of the Montrose district. Mr. Blanford is in charge of La Crescenta.

Will Dance Tonight

A sheet and pillow case dance will be given by the Montrose Chamber of Commerce Saturday night, February 2, at the La Crescenta school auditorium. This will be an informal affair and hospitality committees have been appointed to see that everyone gets acquainted. Funds derived from this source will be used in purchasing fire fighting equipment for the district.

The Stewart Motor company of Montrose announces that after February 1 that automobile owners must procure their licenses from the State Motor Vehicle department. During the month of January the Stewart company acted as agents in getting new plates for owners.

Mrs. Frances W. Brown attended the wedding of her sister-in-law, Miss Phoebe Brown, who became the bride of Edward McClugh of Irwindale Saturday, January 26, 1924.

Mrs. W. J. Hickey is at her Crescent drive home again, following a stay in Glendale where she underwent treatment at the Glendale hospital.

Cement Survey Reveals Big Development of Industry

Preliminary report on the cement industry for the year 1923 just released by the United States Geological Survey, indicates the remarkable development which has taken place in the manufacture and distribution of portland cement during the past year. Prior to last year, 1922 was the banner year in the industry, and the following figures show the substantial progress which has been made during the past two years:

Production (in barrels)	98,842,000	114,789,000	137,377,000
Shipments (in barrels)	95,507,000	117,701,000	135,887,000
Stocks on hand Dec. 31	11,938,000	9,134,000	10,581,000

The remarkable record made by the industry during 1923 in taking care of a demand which has increased over 40 per cent in two years could scarcely have been achieved under less favorable conditions. The cement industry is particularly sensitive to transportation and fuel situations and the absence of shortage of both these essentials during 1923 was most helpful.

Production of portland cement in December was nearly 10,000,000 barrels and shipments were about 6,400,000 barrels, both records for that month, although showing the usual seasonal decline from preceding months.

Stocks of finished cement in manufacturers' hands increased over 3,500,000 barrels during the month, and on December 31 were 10,581,000 barrels, a quantity exceeded only once during the past eight years. Apparently stocks are being accumulated in anticipation of a continuation of the greatly increased demand which has developed during the past two years.

LITTLE CHURCH IS BEAUTY SPOT

Display of Flowers Will Be Made in Structure at Forest Lawn

The Little Church of the Flowers in Forest Lawn Memorial park, is indeed one of the beauty spots of southern California, and Glendale residents and others who enjoy this little church, modeled after the little English church in the churchyard of which Gray wrote his immortal "Elegy Written in a Country Churchyard" will be interested to know that beginning tomorrow, Sunday, February 3, there will be a wonderful arrangement of rare hyacinths and tulips in the cloisters on either side of the nave of the church, and also in the mausoleum.

Hinting of the coming of spring the beautiful blooms come from the hothouses of the Forest Lawn Memorial park association, and will fill the Little Church of the Flowers with their beauty and perfume for perhaps two weeks.

ZANTIPPE VICTIM OF DARING THIEF

August September Swipes His Dream Child in Plan To Build Canal

Arriving in Glendale too late to get the post of city manager, Professor Xavius Zantippe contemplated seeking out some other city that needs management. But something has happened to change all that.

Met at the new Cerritos avenue station by the reporter as he hove up in his handcar, he appeared not in the least discouraged.

"Better late than never," he remarked with that rare smile that spreads over his face like an epidemic. "I understand they are conducting a search for a city manager in Santa Barbara. One of the requirements is that the applicant must be a civil engineer. Now if I had an engineer working for me who wasn't civil, I'd fire him. No sir, I don't blame them at all."

"But can you qualify?" the reporter timidly demanded.

Cites Experience

"If I can't qualify as an engineer after piloting a handcar clear from New York to Glendale, then who can?"

It was suggested that perhaps Hon. August September, of Tujunga, might become a candidate for the post, if he learned his infamous rival was after it.

"Why, Why," swallowing his gum in his excitement, "that fellow couldn't manage a coral bead counter at a South Sea island bazaar! How absurd to class him with me in the same breath."

"But you forget that the great American public are classing you together as presidential possibilities. Besides, have you heard of the Hon. September's latest scheme?"

Wiggles His Ears

Professor Zantippe pricked up his ears like a mule at a railroad crossing.

"What scheme?" he squeaked.

"The Hon. September contemplates a navigable ship canal from the ocean to Tujunga, via Glendale, along the route of the Los Angeles flood control channel, vulgarly known as 'the wash,'" the reporter told him. "He aims to make Tujunga the great inland shipping center of Southern California."

When Professor Zantippe heard this he at first went deathly pale. Then his eyes grew goggly and after whirling around several times, symmetrically, as film heroes do when they have been undone, he collapsed miserably on the floor of his handcar.

He is now at the Glendale Union hospital, where little chance is held out for his recovery, his alleged mentality seeming to have been gravely affected.

Mrs. Zantippe, Miss Xcellente, Xavius, Jr., Xandu and even little Xcrucius are all at his bedside, weeping copiously and administering opiates of hot xeres every fifteen minutes.

From time to time he rolls over on his left ear and mutters:

"I dreamed it . . . I dreamed it . . . He has stolen my dream . . ."

ROSSMOYNE TOWN PLAN REVEALED

Unique Commercial District Is Described by Lon Haddock; Lots Are Limited

"Rossmoyne Town," is the latest creation of the Haddock-Nibley company, owners and subdividers of the great tract Rossmoyne, "the Happyland," in north Glendale, along Verdugo road.

Rossmoyne Town is a new and romantic commercial center, at the junction of Canada boulevard and Verdugo road, offering the only compact exclusively business center in the entire section, according to Lon J. Haddock of the Haddock-Nibley company, whose headquarters are at the Egyptian Temple, Rossmoyne, just across the street from the east terminus of Mountain street.

'Old Towne' Ideas

"Rossmoyne Town will develop into a thriving community center where values will double and treble almost overnight," says Mr. Haddock. "Every building will be unique in design, carrying out the Old World 'towne' idea.

"As the number of these lots is very limited, it will be 'first come, first served,' when our pre-opening sale Sunday, February 3, draws the crowds to Rossmoyne. We advise all who earnestly desire to take advantage of this exceptional opportunity to be on hand with their first payments ready."

The property is reached by driving north on Glendale avenue or Verdugo road.

THURSTON'S MAP SPECIALLY MADE

Street Numbers and Other New Features Tell of Glendale's Growth

Albert G. Thurston, map publisher of Pasadena, has invaded Glandale and his initial effort has resulted in something entirely different than the ordinary street directory. He says, regarding his work—a copy of which has been presented The Glendale Evening News:

"The postoffice has shown great interest in this map, as it is the only one which shows all the streets, ways, courts and bungalow courts (private lanes not dedicated to the city but where your people live as well as dedicated streets.)

"There has never been a map published in Glendale just like this with the great amount of information given, for it shows the actual street numbers of at least a hundred homes so that one can readily find the relative location of all in the city.

List of Features

"The block numbers, transportation lines, including the recently established Pacific Electric bus lines, the elecations of different localities, the location of schools, churches, hospitals and an outline of the mountains is included.

"The may shows everything up to Montrose, including the new Rossmoyne, Verdugo Woodlands and Sparr Heights subdivisions streets, as well as other newly developed area within the corporate limits of Glendale."

Deny Recommending Purchases at Shoals

Formal statement that the National Association of Real Estate Boards has never at any time approved any of the real estate projects in the Muscle Shoals district was made by the association. Resolutions adopted request the press of the nation to publish a statement that articles published in a number of newspapers throughout the north to the effect that the association has given its sanction to and had commended to the public the purchase of lots in Muscle Shoals, Alabama, were a gross misstatement of facts.

The governor of Alabama has made a public statement warning the general public to make a thorough investigation of the situation at Muscle Shoals before purchasing a lot in that territory.

"The emergency in housing conditions caused by the World War is ended, and the further control of rentals or the financing of house building by governments is uneconomic, unsound, an invasion of property rights, and contrary to the best interests of the citizens," asserts the resolution drawn out by the possibility of extending rent control as it is being experienced in New York and in Washington, D. C., to other cities throughout the country.

HOMES FURNISHED BUYERS OF FARMS

Ventura Highway Will See Arcadia Baby Tracts Soon Populated

One of the unfortunate but unavoidable conditions resulting from the rapid growth of Los Angeles has been the frequent necessity of pioneering in temporary houses in undeveloped tracts. Real estate operators are doing everything possible to relieve this situation because they realize that it does not contribute to the permanent advancement of the city and that it makes a most unfavorable impression on newcomers to the city.

The Walter W. Powers company, realtors and community builders of Los Angeles and Long Beach, have taken the lead in relieving this condition by providing a community building service for all purchasers of land sold by the company at its various properties. The company builds the houses, leaving some improvements and minor refinements to be made by the owner from time to time, and payments for both house and land are scarcely more than what land payments would ordinarily be alone.

Service Is Valuable

This building service is expected to be especially valuable to investors in the company's new community, the Arcadia Baby Farms, situated just beyond Hollywood in the neighborhood of Van Nuys, along the Ventura highway in the rich San Fernando valley.

Here the Walter W. Powers company has developed a home community with all public utilities available and quick transportation and schools close at hand. This property is near enough to the industrial center for those who work there, and far enough away to escape the noise, the grime, and the congestion of city life.

The entire property is planted to walnut trees, which should yield enough to bear the entire burden of payments.

Sparr Heights Furnishes Rural Life's Advantages Short Distance From City

"The lure of the hills"—the call of the higher places, away from dampness and fog—city noise and dirt—the deadly monotony of commonplace environment, is largely responsible for Sparr Heights' spectacular development, is the opinion of H. E. Barnum of Barnum-Walter company, subdividers.

"More and more are we coming to realize that the city is a mighty poor place to live in all the time," he said.

"During the week, when business keeps us tied to our desks, we may resist this powerful call of the open spaces, but when the week-end comes, the urge to get out in the open monopolizes all of our attention, and makes it impossible to be contented anywhere else.

"Unfortunately, too many of nature's playgrounds are too far out for the average city dweller. The person who works in town all week, and who has only a day and a half or two days to spend in outdoor recreation, doesn't want to spend half of that time getting out where he can enjoy himself.

Sparr Heights Close In

"We have the beauties and advantages so dear to the heart of the nature lover, yet we are only a few minutes out of the heart of the city.

"In fact, it is easy and convenient for those who work in town to live in Sparr Heights all the year 'round, going back and forth to work each day.

"For those who wish to leave thecity behind entirely and 'settle down' in a community of fine, American folks, Sparr Heights is ideal.

"One feature sure to attract the permanent resident in this section is the Oakmont Country club, in Sparr Heights. This fine club, with its handsome clubhouse, golf course, tennis courts and swimming pool will be open soon, and we are assured that there will be few country clubs in the entire country finer or more complete.

Ideal Location

"There are a large number of 'hill slope' tracts on the market today, but many are too far out to have the improvements and conveniences modern man demands in his home and its surroundings.

"Few care to be so isolated as to be hours away from the best theatres, churches, schools and the other amusement and educational features of the city. Sparr Heights has all city improvements and conveniences, and is only 25 minutes away from everything that the city has to offer.

"This, coupled with the beautiful scenery, the fine elevation, the splendid soil and the reasonable prices, make it practically irresistible, in the opinion of many."

GLEN OAKS LURE FOR HOMESEEKER

Ideal Community Is Being Built; Scenic Highway One of Features

The steam shovel pushing the scenic boulevard from Glendale to Pasadena, through Glen Oaks, is making rapid progress, reports John R. Powers, of the Glen Oaks syndicate, whose local headquarters are on the tract, reached by following Sycamore Canyon road to Sierra avenue and thence to the tract.

"Here where Glendale joins hands with Pasadena," says Mr. Powers, "we are building in the midst of the primeval forest a home community as near ideal as the world offers. Just think of it, only five minutes from the business heart of Glendale, less than ten minutes to Pasadena, when our great boulevard is completed, and not a half hour to Los Angeles—yet here by the sheltered slope of the cool north and south hills, and matchless clumps of live oaks and sycamores that spring, as do a myriad flowers and ferns, from a forest floor centuries old in leaf-mould, where innumerable birds twitter, a thousand quail call, brooks gush crystal water and herds of wild deer run."

Endless Chain Helps to Make Greater City

many years until the 100,000 mark in population will have been reached, if the law of averages keeps up.

Everything Helps

The chain is strengthened by the advertising we do, each letter having its pulling power; each paper telling of the west's remarkable development have most potent effect; and each advertisement presenting the possibilities for those who see fit to make California their home.

Last year we saw Glendale, Alhambra, Santa Monica, Pasadena and other cities advertising; this year Santa Barbara, Pomona and Modesto are telling the tourists what they have to offer. That is splendid, for the bigger and better we build the back country of southern California, the greater our prosperity shall be.

Whole of Nevada Hay Crop Already Bought

RENO, Nev., Feb. 2.—Nevada hay growers announce that the entire crop is sold to California and eastern buyers. This market condition is in striking contrast to that of a few months ago when the surplus was so great and the price so low that a special emergency railroad rate was granted the growers.

If You Make Less Than $3000 a Year We Want You To Read Every Word of This--

If you don't do another thing today—sit back and spend four minutes reading this important announcement—it means dollars in your pocket and a new outlook for 1924.

Last fall we decided to do something radically different in the real estate line. Instead of selecting a profitable, easily-secured tract to sell to our prospects, we asked a group of six of our prospects to scour the city with us and select for us the property they wanted to buy —the property that most fully met all their requirements.

They were all average, typical home-seeking citizens with average tastes and with incomes averaging less than $3000 a year. First, we had them list the requirements which a property must meet before it could interest them.

We found these requirements to be: low price, easy terms, assistance in financing home-building, a location convenient to places of employment as well as to schools, street cars and churches, a wholesome environment for bringing up a family, a property that permits of gardening, poultry raising, etc., to increase the family income.

We spent weeks combing the close-in suburbs of Los Angeles. Nothing we considered seemed quite to meet all these exacting requirements. Two weeks ago one of our committee telephoned excitedly that he had found precisely what we were looking for—he led us out to Hollywood, over Cahuenga Pass, and there, just beyond the din and congestion of the city, we realized our search was at an end.

We have named this extraordinary property Arcadia Baby Farms—a gem situation for a community of small country homes right in the city—set just at the edge of Hollywood at the entrance to the rich San Fernando Valley. And the first six Baby Farms were sold last week to the six members of our prospects-committee.

Today the Arcadia Baby Farms are ready for your enthusiastic inspection. To see the Arcadia Baby Farms is to want one for yourself. There is nothing you can do tomorrow that is half as important as the short run out along Ventura Boulevard, to this gem-spot. You'll find our tract office fronting on the boulevard, close to the new town of Encino, near Balboa Avenue.

Marvelous little home-sites—the entire property planted to walnut trees—and a full-bearing walnut tree will produce from $35 to $50 a year. Figure that up and then add the immense saving from the eggs, poultry and vegetables you'll raise yourself—it's easy to see why these Baby Farms are confidently expected to pay for themselves.

We're not only offering these Arcadia Baby Farms for as little as $740 at practically any terms convenient to you—we're doing another extraordinary thing. Our community building service is prepared to build your home for you, finance the whole thing and let you pay for it in the same way you pay for the lot.

To make a visit to this property doubly worth your while tomorrow, we will do this: If you will cut out this advertisement, write your name in the white space at the left, and bring it tomorrow to Mr. Ralph C. Huntington, our sales manager at the property; he will allow you $25 on the purchase price of any lot you select. Or mail it to our city office and we will send you a copy of our beautifully illustrated circular describing the property. If you have securities that you want to cash in for payments on Arcadia Baby Farms, we will, in many cases, be able to allow you better than the market price for them. For example, we will accept Southern California Edison preferred stock at 110.

Don't make the mistake of delaying your visit to this property. You are sure to be disappointed if you wait—the choice locations will certainly be off the market by Sunday evening.

BURBANK

FOREIGN LICENSE TAGS NUMEROUS

Check of Autos Indicates Volume of Travel from All Over Country

Of the hundreds of automobiles that hourly pass over San Fernando boulevard, Burbank, eighty-nine with foreign (out of state) licenses were counted in one hour by A. R. Tupper of this city.

The cars counted represented twenty-eight states and two Canadian provinces. Colorado and Oregon headed the list, with eight each. Then came Minnesota and Washington with six each. Oklahoma, New York, South Dakota and Nebraska each had three. Kansas, Connecticut, North Dakota, Missouri and Michigan had two each. Single cars were observed during the hour bearing licenses from Wisconsin, Montana, Mississippi, Indiana, Pennsylvania, Utah, Texas, New Jersey, British Columbia and Manitoba.

Officers Poisoned

The federal prohibition department believes Agents George Cole and Fred Olchvary, Burbank residents and former traffic officers of this city, are victims of poison at the hands of bootleggers.

Both were recently made seriously sick, following their lunch, and it is believed that poison was introduced into it while they were on duty. This could easily be done, the department knows. Inasmuch as two other dry agents suffered the same symptoms at the same time, the poison plot looks extremely plausible.

Agents associated with the four victims of the unique conspiracy feel that the crimp they have recently been putting in the rum-runners' activities has riled them to a lust for revenge.

The poisoned men had a hard time of it for a while but are all back on duty now, it is reported.

Election Calendar

An election calendar for sixth class cities, of which Burbank is one, has been received by F. S. Webster, city clerk. As this is election year and three trustees, a clerk and a treasurer are to be elected, the interest in local politics will soon start the pot boiling at a lively rate, and therefore Mr. Webster calls general attention to the schedule as follows:

February 14 to March 25—Publication of date of election, offices to be filled, propositions to be voted on (if any), description of voting precincts and location of polling places.

February 14—The first day for the circulation and signing of nomination papers and the first day to file nomination papers and affidavits of acceptance with the city clerk.

March 15—The last day to register or transfer.

April 14—Election day, the polls to be open eight consecutive hours as the board of trustees may determine.

BOARDS' PROGRAM TOLD BY OFFICIALS

Retiring President Outlines Objectives Sought by Nation's Realtors

Four great objectives that the National Association of Real Estate Boards has are outlined by L. F. Eppich, retiring president, in his address summarizing the work of the national body for the past year. They are:

Second—The study of such data and facts and the development from them of standards of practice.

Third—Growing out of the study of experience also, the association seeks to develop business and public policies which represent the views of the real estate interests of our continent.

Fourth—The development and enforcement of ethical standards which grow out of these three preceding activities and which is the most important function of the organization.

Gaining Recognition

Principles with regard to taxation for which the association has stood for some years are now gaining nation-wide recognition, Mr. Eppich pointed out. He expressed the belief that the major items of the association's taxation program is far advanced toward realization. The tax program includes:

First—The elimination of special privileges for great fortunes which now exist in the form of tax exemption for income of state and municipal bonds.

Second—The reduction of the federal income tax law in all brackets, making possible the release of more funds for the development of new enterprises.

Third—Enactment of a sales or turnover tax. Public opinion is being gradually educated to the effectiveness and equity of such a tax, and Senator Reed Smoot has predicted that this form of taxation will be the outstanding issue of the campaign in 1928, Mr. Eppich said.

FAIRWAY OFFERS BUILDERS CHOICE

Large Lots, Small Estates or Business Property Near Flintridge Club

Fairway, the exclusive tract lying along Michigan avenue, just across from the Flintridge Country club, is offered to Glendale people by the O. B. Thomas company of Los Angeles through their Glendale agent, Roy N. Clayton, manager of the branch at 205 West Broadway, Glendale!

"We feel particularly proud of Fairway," says Mr. Clayton. "While exclusive in atmosphere and surroundings, the lots are remarkably low for this kind of property, ranging from $900 up, on easy terms. We have everything from large lots to small estates, in a great variety of natural settings.

At Door of Cities

"Picture a tract set among the green hills, dotted with clumps of giant oaks and sycamores, bowered in orange and lemon groves and served by marvelous boulevards, right at the doors of Glendale, Pasadena and Los Angeles, with the San Fernando valley and foothill towns equally as close.

"Here at Fairway, with its high, health-giving altitude, its beautiful vistas and its peaceful air of serenity and beauty, it is an ideal spot to build a home. That this is realized by many is becoming every day more evident.

"Large private cars leave the O. B. Thomas company's Los Angeles office every morning at 10:30 o'clock, bound for Fairway. We will be equally glad to take local home-seekers out to the tract, from our office on West Broadway."

QUICK ACTION ON REALTY LISTING

'Priced Right' Property Sold In One Hour Under 'Intensive Bureau'

Under the "intensive bureau" of the Glendale Realty Board, the first listing was taken at 9 o'clock and sold at 10 o'clock of the first day the system was in operation, reports S. C. Kinch of 328 North Brand boulevard, publicity director for the organization.

The intensive bureau of the Glendale Realty Board plans to sell with exceptional speed property that is "priced right." The board feels that the purchaser, as well as the seller, deserves protection and therefore asks owners to place reasonable prices on their property.

"Members of the Glendale Realty Board are expected to use precaution when listing for this co-operative service," says President Peter Hanson of the Glendale Realty Board, "as only such property as is priced right will be accepted."

LECTURE COURSE FOR REALTY MEN

Education Committee Adopts Program of Lessons on Many Subjects

At a largely attended and representative luncheon of the committee on education for the California Real Estate Association, held in Los Angeles, a program of twenty-six lessons and lectures on real estate was formally adopted by the committee.

Fifteen realty boards were represented and Chairman Harrison Lewis presided over the committee's session. Allan McL. Bennett of Long Beach is the vice-chairman.

The program of twenty-six lessons as adopted was presented to the committee and the association by A. William Olmsted, director of university extension for the University of Southern California, and represents the work and experience of that university in its field of operations. George A. Schneider, instructor, also attended.

Among the boards represented at the luncheon were Stockton, Fresno, Los Angeles, Riverside, San Bernardino, Santa Ana, Long Beach, Santa Monica, Beverly Hills, Southwest, Whittier, Redlands, San Diego, Glendale and West Hollywood. William E Herren represented the National Association and the State Association was represented by vice presidents O. A. Vickrey and Everett A. White and the editor of California Real Estate, Glenn D. Willaman. W. L. Brent, the new president of the Los Angeles Realty Board was present, and also Herbert M. Harwood, editor of the Los Angeles Realtor.

The following is the plan of the University of Southern California in which all California universities are invited to co-operate, as presented by Director Olmstead and unanimously adopted by the committee:

Educational Plan Adopted

"The University of Southern California has now prepared twenty-six lessons in Real Estate. These lessons are the outgrowth of several years experience in class room instruction. The material has been prepared by the leading experts in the various fields in California and by the briefing and condensation of materials from books and investigations made throughout the country.

"It will be possible to co-operate with the University in such a way that the local boards can conduct a course following the twenty-six lessons or a smaller number in some cases. It is possible that a compromise could be reached so that the full quota of 26 papers could be discussed and satisfactorily completed within a period of 16 or 17 class meetings.

"In order to get a systematic development of class instruction through local boards it will be necessary to make a rather definite suggestion to these boards including methods of operation so that there will be absolutey uniformity of procedure. The following instruction is given as a basis for discussion:

1—Appoint a committee known as the Educational Committee of the local board.

3—Select representative Realtor as leader of discussion for each subject outlined giving him notice several weeks in advance so that he may prepare and make himself expert in this field.

Methods For Conducting Course

"It is almost impossible to make a successful campaign for the organization of classes depending entirely upon local people to organize and conduct this work. It is necessary to have an outside contact which will systematize and supervise the class instruction and keep it on a uniform standard of efficiency. Such supervision can be exercised both by the State Association Education Committee and by a university extension division. The University of Southern California is now ready with materials which will warrant the undertaking of a general educational program. Other universities may have this material in the future and the co-operation of all will be desirable and useful. There is almost an unlimited field here for constructive work.

"The University would offer a certificate in Real Estate for those who have completed a full course, the same certificate as that granted to those who complete a course under the instructional supervision of the University staff.

Should Make Rules

"The State Association Educational Committee should establish certain rules which would bind all boards in the state in the conduct of these classes.

3—The local committee should purchase the list of books and subscribe for the magazines designated by the State Association Committee.

4—The local board should agree to appoint an educational committee which would be held responsible for the supervision of this course in accordance with the plan outlined by the State Committee and any other rules which would seem necessary for the successful conduct of this class work.

"The only method by which continuity can be assured is through definite supervision by an outside organization. This it seems should come from the State Committee and professional educators working through the extension division of the universities of the state.

OPENING DAY AT NEW SUBDIVISION

Sunset Hills Tract Will Be Opened to Homeseekers Sunday, Feb. 3

Hayward & McCartney are announcing the opening of their latest subdivision, known as Sunset Hills, popularized as "The aristocrat of all subdivisions," because it embodies that to them by reason of the character given to it from its sightly location and the protective building restrictions.

According to F. P. Hayward, this property offers the finest elevated level homesites of the entire foothill section in the vicinity of Glendale, having a greater altitude than any other level subdivision, and taking in, as it does, with its three-way unobstructed view, the Glendale district, Griffith Park and Mt. Hollywood and the San Fernando valley. "It would seem," says Mr. Hayward, "that one could ask for nothing more on this earth, in the way of a home-site, than is found in this property."

All Improvements

The improvements are to be in keeping with the rigid restrictions, including complete street work and ornamental lights on three of the streets, thus assuring a high-class neighborhood, and, notwithstanding this, the prices of the lots, as announced by Hayward & McCartney, are lower than surrounding subdivisions have sold and are selling for.

Hayward & McCartney are anticipating an immediate and a strong demand for these few choice homesites, believing that it will just suit those who have not yet discovered the foothill lot that is just what they want as a site for the permanent home, and so the terms have been arranged to enable those who are not yet ready to build to carry their investment conveniently.

The opening day of the sale, barring rain, is set for Sunday, February 3, and the sales organization of Hayward & McCartney will be at the property to greet any and all who care to come for an investigation of this marvelous property. It is located on Mountain street and above, at Allen avenue, two blocks west of Brand's Castle, at the head of Grand View road.

LOT DRAWING TO BE HELD SUNDAY

Hayward & McCartney to Give Bellevue Homesite to Lucky Winner

Inasmuch as the street work in Beautiful Bellevue is practically completed, Hayward & McCartney announce that they are going to hold the drawing of the free lot, which is to be deeded to the original purchaser of a lot in Beautiful Bellevue, who is lucky in the drawing.

Sunset Hills is to be the scene of the occasion, to which no small importance is attached by those eligible, for the lot to be given away is considered to be worth some $2,000.

Wonderful Vista

Sunset Hills is the latest subdivision being sold by Hayward & McCartney, located at the head of Allen avenue above Mountain street, overlooking the entire Glendale district and San Fernando valley.

At this point of vantage the drawing will be held at 3 p. m. Sunday, February 3, and Hayward & McCartney are anticipating welcoming not only the buyers of lots in Beautiful Bellevue and their friends but many others who desire to inspect "The aristocrat of all subdivisions," on its opening day.

Scout Officials at 12th Regional Meet

Roy L. Kent, president of the Verdugo Hills District council with A. R. Eastman, treasurer, and council members Francis J. W. Henry, Wm. Hunter, Jesse E. Smith and R. D. White last week attended the annual meeting of the twelfth Regional Boy Scout committee having jurisdiction over the states of California, Arizona, Nevada and Utah. The meeting which was attended by about seventy-five men was held at the Hotel Biltmore. The sessions lasted all day and evening.

Dr. George W. Fisher, deputy chief Scout executive of the United States, presided over the morning session. Stewart W. French, regional Boy Scout chairman, presided over the afternoon session. The evening session was held in the form of a banquet with Malcom McNaughton, resident of the Los Angeles Boy Scout council, presiding. Interesting speakers at the different sessions were Charles C. Moore, president of the San Francisco Boy Scout council; Newcomb Carlton of New York, John A. McGregor of San Francisco, Clarence Howard of St. Louis and Richard Lyman of the Salt Lake Boy Scout council.

President Roy L. Kent of the Verdugo Hills District council was appointed as chairman of the committee on nominations for regional officers for 1924. Mr. Kent also gave an interesting talk on the Boy Scout work in this section.

The conference closed with a grand concert by the Los Angeles Boy Scout band.

2000 in California Will Get Training

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 2.—Two thousand young men will be trained in the Citizens' Military Training Camps in the Ninth Corps area during the summer of 1924, under present plans of the War Department, it is announced by the Commanding Officer at the Presido.

The number is 500 less than in 1923, when many applicants were unable to attend those camps because of lack of space. Owing to the great popularity of these camps throughout the Ninth Corps area, it is essential that candidates make their applications immediately.

The scheme of instruction is divided into four courses: Basic Red, Advanced Red, White and Blue. Briefly, the Basic and Advanced Red courses are designed to demonstrate to the public and to the candidates attending, the benefits that may be obtained from military duties, responsibilities and privileges of American citizenship, it was explained.

WALNUT SQUARE SELLS RAPIDLY

Peter Hanson Declares Tract Going Fast; Parkways Special Feature

Over one-fourth of the eight-four lots in Walnut Square were sold out the day the tract was put on, reports Peter Hanson of McMillan, Schuyler & Hanson, 122 West Broadway, selling agents for this fast-selling tract, which is located between Glendale and Burbank, one block from San Fernando road and only two blocks from the Pacific Electric line.

"A special feature of the tract is that the parkways are so arranged as to be beautifully shaded with large walnut trees," says Mr. Hanson. "Another very desirable feature is that the lots are all oversize, ranging from 50 to 62½ feet front by 150 to 169 feet in depth.

Fine Walnut Trees

"As the tract is covered with big walnut trees, each lot will have one or more of them, still another reason why sales are rapid at Walnut Square. Our terms of from $750 to $1500, on easy payments down and monthly payments low enough for anyone to carry them, make these lots within the reach of all.

"Restrictions are from $2000 up, high enough to eliminate the possibility of temporary houses yet low enough to work no hardships. In every way, Walnut Square offers one of the best opportunities for profitable investment that could be conceived.

"Those who come out Sunday and let our tract salesmen show them this garden spot will benefit greatly. Such a tract as this will not long be on the market."

Fifty Year Romance Culminates in Wedding

CUTLER, Feb. 2.—Engaged fifty years ago, Sam Bowman, 71, and Mrs. Alice Stewart, 68, successfully bridged the span and were married last night in Crosi by Rev. W. W. Nunn.

In the late sixties the youthful pair were sweethearts in Genessee, Illinois, but with passing years they drifted apart. The old days faded into memory and each married someone else. Both later were bereaved.

California beckoned to both and Fate determined that they meet once more. Mr. and Mrs. Bowman will reside in this city.

FINE HOMES TO BE CONSTRUCTED

Attractive Residences Are One of the Features of Woodbury Heights

The sales during the last thirty days at Woodbury Heights have totaled $40,000, bringing the sales in this high class residential tract to over $90,000, reports T. W. Watson of the T. W. Watson company, subdividers, 708 East Broadway.

Nearly one-third of the tract is now sold. Mr. Watson states, accrediting the rapidity of sales to the atmosphere of beauty and refinement surrounding Woodbury Heights, and to the fact that many of the advantages there are not to be found elsewhere in southern California.

High Class Homes

"Many out-of-town buyers are securing sites here," says Mr. Watson, "and a high class of homes is going up. One buyer has plans being drawn for a $30,000 villa and others are in like proportion.

"While many of the sites are gone, there are a number of the very best still available, at original prices and ready for immediate building. We have been working at top speed on Woodbury Heights, and the result is that sidewalks, curbs, streets, gas, water and electricity are well under way.

Superior Real Estate

"Anyone in the market for superior real estate at prices that compel action should see this tract before buying to build the ultimate home. Once you have seen it, you fall in love with it and will not be satisfied elsewhere. This has been proved time and again by buyers here.

"For those who are seeking an investment, as well as for those who desire to build homes, Woodbury Heights offers a wonderful opportunity. With the high-class dwellings rising here, values are bound to go far up in the months to come."

Woodbury Heights was for years the home estate of Mr. and Mrs. George Woodbury, pioneer Glendalians. It lies along Verdugo road, between Lexington drive and Monterey road.

Sparr Heights

VIVID, snapping, sparkling is life in a country club or in its neighborhood–Presence of the broad, velvet greens, the sound of the ping of club against golf ball, the clear, clean air, the flashing colors of sport clothes, the roses in the cheeks of the young, the flush of health in the faces of their elders–these things are yours in a country club district.

MONTECITO PARK

In Montecito Park you will find an unusual combination of a tremendously beautiful hillslope residential district with a 115-acre golf and country club for its front yard!

Here, in a brief twelve months, have arisen from a mere vision a hundred happy homes, a $40,000 community center (our gift to our people), a country club whose great old English-manse clubhouse is erected and solid improvements worth of hundreds of thousands of dollars.

And because we have built in Sparr Heights and Montecito Park on an aristocratic plane in keeping with the country club pictured above, we have sold more than $2,000,000 worth of property here in the twelve months!

Oakmont Country Club-

It is predicted that this club will be one of the finest in Southern California. The building is up, as shown above, the swimming pools and tennis courts are being completed, the 18-hole course will be dotted with players shortly. You will enjoy Montecito Park—with its ancient hills as silent sentinels all around—whether or not you join the club.

Kirk Follows Footsteps Of Christ Over Road to Supper Room at Emmaus

Continuing the description given in his last letter, W. B. Kirk writes today about the village of Siloam. This letter was written from Jerusalem the last of December, and reads:

W. B. KIRK

"Opposite the pool and just south of Gethsemane is the village of Siloam, quite a settlement, the houses all having flat roofs as in Christ's time. The 'Tomb of Absalom,' very old, if not the real thing, is very picturesque, being a monument with a pointed dome.

"Over the rocks and past very old olive trees (by the way, I am told that those in Gethsemane surely date from the Crusaders, and so may be direct descendants of those which were there in Christ's time), we finally got back to the Joffa gate, near which is our hotel, the Olivet House. We were tired, but happy.

"On Friday we had a trip which is made by very few, possibly because the place is not absolutely authenticated, but principally, I think, because it is hard of access. It ws too strenuous for the wife, but the daughter and I, with our dragoman, on donkeys and with a boy 'driver,' started at 12:30 for Emmaus, the place so well known that we have seen several celebrated old paintings depicting the supper there.

"Starting out of the Joffa road, which is the main thoroughfare out of Jerusalem, we turned off from it at some distance north of the city and followed a rocky trail for the balance of the way. Only sure-footed burros could ever travel such a trail, up and down the steep sides of the hills, where there is nothing but rock, past small cultivated spots, where the natives were plowing with their crooked stick plows.

Hospice and Church

Passing three villages, we finally came to a high stone wall within which is a hospice and church of the Franciscan fathers. This is about all there is to the present Emmaus. Ringing the bell the Arab attendant in charge invited us in and showed us another very handsome church, reconstructed on the old foundation of one built by the Crusaders in the twelfth century. Carved on the front walls is 'Emmaus' in large letters, and other Latin sentences referring to the 'Walk of Emmaus.'

"In the splendid hospice we were afterward regaled with some good water and oranges, before starting on our hard trip back to Jerusalem. This rough road was seven or eight miles each way. This exactly fits the Bible account of the distance, sixty furlongs. The maps, however, show Emmaus as being located in different directions from Jerusalem, so of course we are not sure that we went to the right one.

"However, as we rode over those Judean hills we could picture the original 'walk' in our minds and conversation, which we surely did and I am sure that no trip we could have made could have done us more good. As I have said, unless one believes the Bible and has faith in Christ as the savior he would hardly be justified in coming to Palestine. To us, who do believe, everything about the country has a hallowed association and is of the deepest interest.

"Words convey so little of what we see and experience that these letters from here, especially, seem hollow and convey so little. To you whom I know I hope to be able to tell more, but in writing I feel that I am giving you little.

Dark Arched Streets

"The street scenes in the old city you have had pictured to you many times. The narrow ways, dark and arched overhead, the little stalls called shops, where the Jews with long whiskers, Syrians, Arabs, Turks and what not solicit you to buy, are like those in Cairo and other eastern cities.

"Unsanitary, ill-smelling, repulsive, the populace reminds you little of your conception of such a pure character as that of Jesus who must have been clean and attractive in person, as well as in heart.

"Turning off of David street and wandering about, an apparent street led me into an Arab restaurant, where vile-looking men, seated on the ground on very low stools were munching a little dirty-looking food, rolling cigarettes, playing a game or lolling and talking loud and boisterously. It was so loathsome that I hastened out, I assure you.

"A lot of their vegetables are just the same as ours and in a few places are very well displayed. The 'American Colony' has a nice photo and curio shop within the wall, a few hotels and cooks are also within, but nearly all the better population and shops are outside where the larger population is. To the north and northwest is splendid construction of stone, and new homes and buildings are being constructed. To the northwest the Jewish and German peoples live and have hopes for their sick and blind scattered all about. The English and Americans are toward the northeast in very substantial stone structures. Other European peoples, especially the Italians, have hospitals and churches there.

"The Y. M. C. A. has a good building and equipment and employs three secretaries. They have a total membership of about 500.

Motor to Galilee

"Tomorrow, early, we take auto north through Judea and Samaria to Galilee, stopping at Jacob's well and other places on the way to Nazareth, where we will spend a few hours, then go on to Tiberias, the only large town on the Sea of Galilee.

"Tuesday we hope to take a long boat ride around this justly famed body of water if the wind and weather are favorable. Wednesday we will proceed to Damascus for the balance of the week. Next week we have a very interesting visit in prospect before going on to Beirut, whence we embark on the 10th for Constantinople, on a French boat.

"The British having evacuated Turkey, I was compelled to secure another vise for Constantinople, which I have done here through the Swedish consul, who is acting for Turkey. This cost us another Egyptian pound. I have also secured one for Greece, so guess we are equipped to get back to Italy."

Another Kirk letter will appear shortly in The Glendale Evening News.

A. W. Maxwell Back in Sunny Southland

A. W. Maxwell, an old-time Glendalian, is now living at 702 East Tenth street, Burbank, and is keeping busy developing a pretty fruit farm. Mr. Maxwell is 72 years old, and enjoys the health of a much younger man. After living in Glendale on Cedar street for six years, he left here a number of years ago, and moved to Virginia, where he bought a 1,000-acre farm and spent several years improving it. He then moved back to California and settled at Pasadena, where he operated an apartment. His wife and daughter, Miss Louise Maxwell, are with him in Burbank.

GATHER DATA ON VALUE OF FARMS

Forecast of Economic Life of Nation to Result From Inquiries

Possibility that data can be secured which will enable scientific forecasting of farm land values, a possibility of import not only to holders and to buyers and sellers of farm lands but to the entire economic life of the country which is closely bound up with farm prosperity, is presented by Dr. Richard T. Ely, of the University of Wisconsin, head of the Institute for Research in Land Economics. Dr. Ely, in a discussion before a recent meeting of the American Statistical Association, advanced the assertion that such forecasting is possible with some degree of accuracy, over long periods even up to forty years.

Importance of forecasting land value movements is emphasized by the fact that a very large part of present economic distress is due to mistakes made a few years ago in estimating value changes, Dr. Ely points out. On the other hand, forecasting based on as complete data as can be obtained will help the farmer to secure continued prosperity, because it will aid him and the other elements in the economic population to secure that proportionality in production which is essential to prosperity.

Traces Movements

There is much to support the thesis that the movements of farm land values are wavelike, Dr. Ely asserts. He points out that farm land values have been transferred from one part of Europe to another, and from Europe to America, and from one part of America to another.

These are the factors outlined by Dr. Ely as those by which farm land prices in America in the coming period will be affected:

First—Potential new land that may be brought into use throughout the world, taking into account quality as well as quantity. Rapidity with the potentialities in Siberia and South America and in the tropics are likely to be realized.

Second—Potentialities of future events in Europe, in the Balkans, in Russia, in the effort of certain European countries to become more nearly self-sufficing with respect to agricultural products.

Third—Improvement to be expected in the utilization of lands under cultivation. Progress here has been so remarkable that we are receiving an increasing food production with decreasing expenditures of labor and capital.

Fourth—Potentialities of the growth in world population.

Researches in regard to what has happened in the past should enable us to find a working answer to the question of what rate of growth in population will more than offset the rate of growth in the improvement of land utilization, Dr. Ely asserts.

CLEVER ACTS ON VAUDEVILLE BILL

Glendale Theatre Presents High Class Turns to Patrons Tonight

An unusual vaudeville program is to be seen for the last times today at the Glendale Theatre. The Mel-O-Dee saxophone four stopped the bill last night with their high class musical presentation and that's saying something. Rubye Latham opened the show with some wonderful aerial feats on a net, Eddie Russell followed up with a line of chatter and dancing that scored heavily; "Oh Henry" proved humorous with Elliot and Burke fighting it out over the old time $15 gag; and the Tropical Trio wound up the performance with some unusual dancing and melodies. All of the acts are well seasoned and there is no reason why there should not be two packed houses to greet the performers tonight.

Magnolia Park

Pre-Opening Sale of

Unit No. 4

This Map Points the Road to Quick Profits

Study the map below—note carefully the network of boulevards intersecting in and surrounding Magnolia Park. Note that Magnolia Park is in the CENTER of the lower end of the great San Fernando Valley, midway between Lankershim and Burbank. You KNOW that the San Fernando Road is heavily congested—Pioneer boulevard has been opened to relieve San Fernando Road—to divert part of this great stream of traffic direct to Los Angeles by way of Riverside Drive. The map will show you that Magnolia Boulevard, already a heavily traveled artery, is the shortest road across the valley and will carry Burbank and Lankershim traffic through the heart of Magnolia Park to Pioneer Boulevard where it will join the great flood of upper valley traffic traveling south direct to Los Angeles. You KNOW that values follow the boulevards and that the intersections of heavily traveled highways make great business centers. Study the map—carefully—it means DOLLARS to you if you act quickly—while prices are still LOW. Study the map, then come to Magnolia Park and see for yourself that it is CORRECT. See the homes already built, over 100 of them. See the business buildings already occupied and see the plans for which a permit has been issued for a solid block of brick buildings including a two story bank building. KIWANIS MEETING IS ALL BUSINESS

Dr. T. C. Young Wields Gavel In Absence of President A. L. Baird

For the first time in many months, no special entertainment or speaker was featured on the regular program of the Glendale Kiwanis club, held yesterday at the Tuesday Afternoon club.

In the absence of President A. L. Baird, Vice-President Dr. T. C. Young wielded the gavel. Practically the entire luncheon hour was given over to the consideration and discussion of various business matters in which the club is interested.

Future plans and activities of the education committee, of which Rev. "Cliff" Cole is chairman, were particularly emphasized. Ways and means by which the committee can increase its scope of service, not only to the members, but to the community at large, were outlined.

"Cliff" gave a very interesting account of his visit to the Fresno Kiwanis club on last Thursday, and brought a hearty message of greeting from that club to Glendale Kiwanis.

Sympathy for Wilson

Kiwanians Cole, Ingledue and Frazier were appointed a committee of three to draft a suitable resolution of condolence and sympathy with the wife and family of former President Woodrow Wilson, reported to be in a dying condition.

"Bill" Bode, chairman of the entertainment committee, gave a very informative talk on the trials and tribulations of an entertainment committee. Members were impressed with the necessity of giving their co-operation and individual attention to the perfection of the club's entertainment plans—provided successful events were desired.

A rising vote of thanks and appreciation was extended by the club to this committee for the successful manner in which the inaugural dance was conducted on last Tuesday evening. Kiwanians "Bill" Bode, Harry MacBain, Syd Brown and Ray Galvin were the men responsible.

Rotary Invitation

An invitation signed by Dan Kelty, secretary of Rotary, to the Kiwanis club to attend a Community Service scheduled for next Thursday evening, February 10, was read by Secretary Don Webb. The invitation was accepted, and every effort possible will be made by Kiwanis to assist Rotary in assuring the success of the evening.

According to the present plans of Chairman Truitt of the program committee, Rex Goodcell of the internal revenue office, will address the club at next Friday's luncheon.

Attendance prizes were awarded to Rev. C. M. Calderwood, Herb Henning and Alfred F. Priest. Seargeant-at-Arms "Bill" Hooper declares that a few Kiwanians had the regular weekly tariff of six bits for lunch, and boosted another four bits on the last menu.

AUTHOR OF SEA TALES TO LECTURE

William M'Fee to Give Talk at Tuesday Club on 'Romantic Realist'

"A Romantic Realist" is the appellation sometimes given William McFee, author, who is to lecture to Tuesday Afternoon club members Tuesday afternoon on "My Mediterranean."

His lecture will be the big event of the club program for Tuesday. Beginning in the morning there will be the meeting of the Fine Arts Section, followed by the Bible Section addressed by Miss Winifred Rouzee. A club luncheon will be served at 12:30 o'clock with Joseph C. Burke, United States district attorney speaking on "The Narcotic Evil" and Mrs. Howard Sherwood, chairman of endowment for the Los Angeles District Federation of Women's clubs, speaking on work under her direction.

At 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon Mrs. Daniel Campbell, club president, will preside over a club business meeting preceding Mr. McFee's lecture.

Born on High Seas

But to return to Mr. McFee; he is the son of an English sea captain and was born at sea in 1881. He was educated in New Southgate, a suburb north of London, and from 1897 to 1900 he worked in McMuriland's Engineering shops at Aldersgate. He now holds his extra chief's certificate from the London Board of Trade, a United States chief's license and is associate member of the Institute of Mechanical Engineers, London.

McFee was 24 years of age and the sea was calling, so he resigned and took berth as a junior engineer on one of his uncle's ships and has been at sea ever since.

Back to Ocean

When the World War was over and McFee was demobilized he returned to the United States but did not remain ashore long. He has been commuting back and forth between New York and the Spanish Main, first as first assistant engineer, now as chief engineer, with full responsibility for the mechanical operation of a great passenger liner, which also carries the most temperamental of fruits, the banana.

With such engineering problems and responsibility as part of his daily stine, McFee in the last four years has written "Captain Macedoine's Daughter," "Harbors of Memory" and "Command."

100 Homes Built in Magnolia Park

Magnolia Park, Burbank, already has over 100 homes completed and in addition many business buildings, while a two-story bank is about to start, reports W. H. Thompson, sales manager for Earl L. White, owner and subdivider, whose office is located on the tract, on Magnolia boulevard.

"Magnolia Park is the center of a network of important boulevards and is fast becoming the hub of activity for the lower portion of the San Fernando valley," says Mr. Thompson. With Pioneer boulevard opened to relieve the congestion on San Fernando boulevard, connecting with Los Angeles via Riverside drive, this section will overnight become a city.

"Magnolia boulevard, already heavily traveled, is the shortest route to Lankershim and will carry traffic from all that territory through Burbank to Magnolia Park. Values follow boulevards. When we offer for $800, on terms of 15 per cent down and 1½ per cent a month, fine level lots, 50x135 feet, we are cutting them down to a sure profit-making basis for buyers.

"Improvements at Magnolia Park include gas, water, electricity, streets, curbs and sidewalks. Unit No. 4 is going on the market today. It offers another great opportunity to investors and homeseekers, too important to overlook."

Earl L. White, owner and subdivider of Magnolia Park, has his own home on the tract, which is reached by going out San Fernando boulevard to Magnolia, turning on Magnolia and continuing to the tract.

Two Jones, Two Smiths Report Four Robberies

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 2.—Police officials for the moment today were inclined to think someone was playing a practical joke on them when two men, each giving the name of Jones appeared almost simultaneously and declared they had been robbed.

Charles E. Jones, 630 Twelfth street, complained that someone had taken his overcoat, which he had left in his automobile on Third street.

C. W. Jones of Walnut Grove a few minutes later appeared at the Hall of Justice and made a similar complaint. A thief had taken his overcoat from his automobile, which was parked at Seventh and L streets.

W. O. Smith, 1840 Forty-eighth street then appeared with the complaint that his overcoat also had been stolen from his office at 520 K street, and was followed by S. T. Smith, 3007 L street, who reported the theft of a spare tire from his auto while parked in front of 1116 Twenty-fifth street.

White Stresses Value of Education In Address to Wilson Avenue Students

The mid-winter class of 1924, of Wilson avenue school, added another page to the history of this pioneer school of the city system, when the ninety members were given diplomas at the commencement exercises last night in the school auditorium.

Richardson D. White, superintendent of the city schools, addressed the class, speaking of the "business" of going to school; past history of education, touching upon the days of the scribes, Euclid and the Spartan, when physical education was the highest ideal to be striven for, the Athenian idea of grace and beauty, and on down to Socrates, the father of the teaching profession.

He spoke of the money value of an education, illustrating convincingly with blackboard and figures, which were quoted from the report of the department of research of the national board of education. He closed with the words: "The job of living has never before been as big as now. We have never had such problems to solve. It is the men of the future who must solve them. Are you going to be those men? Are you going over the top?"

Diplomas Presented

Acting Principal Chas. E. Merrill presided and introduced the speaker, also Justice Harry W. Chase, a member of the board of education, who made a brief congratulatory speech to the graduates and presented the diplomas.

Music numbers on the program were the "Connecticut March" and "Rays of Gold," by the school orchestra, directed by Miss Elsa Brennaman; "Flag of Flags" was sung by the boys' glee club.

"When de Shadders Spread Aroun'" (Dvorak-Page), by the girls' glee club of sixty voices, and "On Parade," by the combined glee clubs, directed by Miss Mildred Hughey.

Dorris Cole and Doris Carver sang in duet, "Barcarolle" from "Love Tales of Hoffman" (Offenbach), with accompaniment by Susie Smith.

Two early classics, "Minuet" (Dussek) and "Theme in G" (Beethoven), a violin trio by Fayette Wilson, Ina Fletcher, Dorothy Hosking, with piano accompaniment by Susie Smith, was followed by a boys' trio, sung by Stanley Eckert, Wilmar King and George Hall, with accompaniment by Marion Chapman.

Two numbers sung by the graduating class, "Joy and Courage" and "Farewell Song of the Class of 1924" closed the evening's exercises.

Flag Is Admired

The class memorial, a handsome silk flag and standard, that had been formally presented to the school at a morning assembly, was displayed for the parents and friends to admire.

The class teachers were Miss Edith Tyler, Mrs. Fern Fairy Lytle and Miss Margaret Sharpe.

FOOTHILL TRACT LOTS HALF SOLD

'Glendale View,' 800 Feet High Offers Advantages to Home Seekers

Glendale View is one-half sold out, states R. S. S. Jackson of 1003 West Broadway, Eagle Rock, owner's agent for this sightly Glendale tract, located at Mountain and Allen streets, three blocks west of Brand's castle.

"We have 800 feet altitude at Glendale View," says Mr. Jackson. "This means not only a decided health factor but brings to buyers here one of the finest views it is possible to get anywhere, with Glendale, the Hollywood hills and the whole San Fernando valley spread out below us.

Wide Price Range

"Our prices range from $2000 to $7000, on convenient terms. The lots are large and the neighborhood is exclusive, with restrictions sufficient to maintain the proper atmosphere. Everywhere, people are talking about Glendale's foothill residential section. It is becoming as well known as anything in Pasadena, Hollywood or Beverly Hills.

"And Glendale View offers the buyer property as fine as anything in the section, at prices that are a revelation. Come up Sunday and look the tract over. From Glendale, drive north on Central avenue to Kenneth road, west on Kenneth to Grand View avenue, north on Grand View to Mountain street and three blocks west on Mountain, to the tract, where our salesmen will be on hand to show you around."

Expert Workmen To Lay Linoleum

The Keystone Shade and Linoleum Co., 212 South Central, is filling a much needed field in Glendale. The beautiful line of inlaid, straight laid and printed linoleums which this company carries at all times offers a wide variety of choice and furnishes material available for any purpose. The company has expert workmen to lay linoleum as it should be laid in order to get the maximum wear and effect.

In stock the company now has all the new 1924 designs, and makes a specialty of Armstrong's art linoleum rugs, which are carried in all sizes, available for every room in the house.

In the window shade department a valuable service is offered. Window shades are made to order, and only those who have had an opportunity to compare made-to-order shades with stock shades can rightly appreciate the attractions and benefits of the kind of shades that are made exactly the right size and form for the individual window.

R. A. Gilbert and G. V. Gilbert, brothers, comprise the firm. G. V. Gilbert was formerly in the linoleum department at Pendroy's, and R. A. Gilbert was until three months ago the head of a traveling theatrical organization, in which he held the position of professional hypnotist.

Detroit Jewel Popular in Glendale

The largest stock of gas ranges in Glendale is carried by George J. Trissel, 223 South Brand boulevard, who makes a specialty of the Detroit Jewel ranges, having the exclusive agency for these famous ranges.

The establishment has developed its service to a point that puts it in a class by itself. The plan is that free service will be given any owner of a Detroit Jewel, regardless of whether the particular range was bought from Trissel or not. People bringing a Detroit Jewel to Glendale from elsewhere, can have the benefit of this service in getting the stove adjusted to do most efficient work for the gas pressure at the point it is connected.

So popular is the Detroit Jewel that fully 80 per cent of the sales made by Trissel are made to people who formerly owned stoves of this make. An interesting feature about the Detroit Jewel is the fact that the same material and workmanship is put in a two-hole hot plate as goes into a $200 white enamel range.

Trissel also handles the Bohn Syphon refrigerators. These refrigerators are constructed to obtain the greatest possible efficiency with the least possible amount of ice. The white enamel Bohn Syphon refrigerator is a beauty. Smaller refrigerators are also handled by the establishment.

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.

SPIRITUALITY VS MATERIALITY

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

"Dear Doctor:—You promised some time ago to publish an article on liver spots, but I have not seen it yet.—L."

Well, here's a little on 'em. It's going to take many moons before I will be able to cover the questions I get in one day's mail. So please do not be impatient.

So-called liver spots are due to very many causes. Sometimes they are an accompaniment of certain diseases, sometimes, they appear during pregnancy, and sometimes they are due to some disease of the skin. They often appear in old age. The reason why the coloring matter should be deposited in the skin is not known in most cases. Those spots that are caused by diseases will clear up when the diseases are cured, but others may be permanent.

Jackson, in his book on skin diseases, advised pure carbolic acid applied with a swab of cotton on a small sharpened stick. This turns the skin white, and in a few days the shriveled-up skin falls. This will be effective if the spots are small.

Peroxide of hydrogen will cause a temporary disappearance of them. Jackson also speaks of salicylic acid, 10 to 15 per cent, in an ointment, as sometimes helpful.

A Farmer:—The condition of your foot which you describe is probably not a local condition. I advise you to see a nerve specialist. The same advice applies to your brother.

Mrs. H.:—If you cannot find a suitable support for your bust in the department stores or surgical supply houses, you can take two strips of heavy cloth about six inches wide and pass one over the right shoulder, under the left breast and over the back, and the other one the opposite side. When they are both on they will be crossed and will form a sling for the heavy bust. It is quite essential that heavy busts should be supported while nursing the baby during weaning and, in fact, at any time.

"Dear Doctor:—I am enclosing a fully addressed, stamped envelope and four cents for your reduction pamphlet. I am 56 years old, fifty pounds overweight and fairly limber for age and size. I can touch the floor without bending my knees, but my grandmother did that when she was 90.

"I have been short of breath ever since I can remember, and have had several spells of lumbago. Everybody calls me a small eater, but I notice that I began to gain on the farm where I had cream and such things. Am always tired, but ready to start. Always have some intensely interesting fad. Isn't the answer reducing?— Mrs. F. K."

Yes, Mrs. K., that is the answer. You will find you never had any fad half so interesting as reducing if we can call a measure so beneficial for health and happiness a fad.

Mrs. E. S.:—It is now considered proper to let a left-handed child continue to be left-handed, rather than try to force it to use its right hand, as left-handedness is apparently a normal condition in some cases, and trying to force the use of the right hand in this condition is thought to cause a little unnecessary mental strain. However, there is no nerve connection broken up, nor is the child made less bright, as some one has told you.

V.:—Occasionally simple goiter will develop during pregnancy. Obstetricians usually give a very small dose of organic iodine, once a week in these cases. If your physician does not know the name of the preparation which is used so successfully in Switzerland and Ohio in the prevention of goiter, I will gladly send him the name, if he will write to me on his official stationery, requesting it.

M.:—Bunions are caused by wearing shoes that are too narrow or too short, especially those that are too short. It's a sad bit of economy to continue to wear shoes of this character. A bunion really is an outward displacement of the first joint of the great toe, accompanied by an inflammation of the covering of the bone (the periostium), with an excess growth of this tissue and an inflammation of the sack (bursa) which contains the joint lubricating fluid. If the bunion is very large it will probably have to be operated upon. If not, properly fitted shoes and a little pad to fit around the swelling to protect the sensitive area from pressure, will help.

Monday—Answers to Correspondents

My Dear Followers:—When sending for material which we offer you, please remember to enclose a stamped envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must enclose four cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, not over 200 words, and type or write them legibly with ink. Please sign your name as evidence of good faith—we will not use it in any way. Remember it is impossible for me to diagnose for you or to answer you personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the column as soon as possible, if they are of general interest. Don't forget the s. a. s. e. if you expect me to send you the information I have offered.

FROCKS FOR PRACTICAL WEAR

The slip-on kimono frocks give one an excellent excuse to combine plain and plaid materials, for sleeves must have cuffs, and this season most necklines insist upon the finishing touch of a collar. The model to the left is in wool crepe trimmed with plaid silk. Instead of the round collar, the slashed fronts may be faced and turned back to form revers, with a convertible collar. Medium size requires 3 1-2 yards 36-inch plain and 3-4 yard 36-inch plaid material.

Businesslike and exceedingly smart is the second frock in dark blue flannel. The deep V-shaped collar and the cuffs are of silk in self-color, and the vest may correspond if desired. Satin brocade is frequently used for vestees added as an enlivening touch for a dark frock. This type is generally becoming and lends itself to development in a variety of materials. Medium size requires 3 1-4 yards 42-inch flannel and 3-4 yard silk.

First model: Pictorial Review dress No. 1946. Sizes 34 to 48 inches bust. Price 45 cents.

Second model: Dress No. 1980. Sizes 36 to 48 inches bust. Price 45 cents.

Heart and Home Problems

By MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

A SELFISH LOVER

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have been going with a young man for a year. Our ages are almost 18. When he entered college this fall he asked me to wear a ring for him, which I refused to do on account of having another year in school and because we were both too young.

He tells me he loves me very dearly and when he left he put stress on my not going with any one else while he was away. While I esteemed his friendship very highly, I would not promise him what he asked, and have had other friends at times until he came for Christmas vacation. He was very much displeased about my going out with other friends. Others have been trying to make trouble between us on account of my doing so.

Would it be right for me to stay at home and not go out with any one or have friends? Some people tell me one thing and some another. It is hard for a young girl in a small town to know just what is right in a case like this. I want to do the right thing.

A SMALL TOWN GIRL.

It seems to me the young man is very selfish in expecting you to stay at home all the time he is away at school. You are too young to tie yourself to a boy who is practically as young as you are yourself, and therefore you showed great wisdom in refusing to wear a ring or bind yourself to promises. Do what you believe to be right and then refuse to worry over what other people say about the matter. Some people love to interfere with some one else's business. Of course, you will find some of your friends arguing one way and some another. The more you fret over the advice and interference, the more advice and interference you will receive.

* * *

AN ANXIOUS WIFE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a married lady. My husband wanted me to take a vacation and so I did. While I was away he spent a lot of money and he will not tell me what he did with it. The little he did tell me I have found out was not true. I do not see anything he bought with it and he did not pay any debts.

I am getting tired of his lies. What would you advise me to do? He is kind to me in some ways, but I can never tell what he does with his money. What shall I do? Do you think a man loves his wife when he tells her lies?

ANXIOUS WIFE.

You do not give your husband enough freedom and therefore he resorts to lies. Both the husband and wife are entitled to spend a certain amount of money without accounting for the way it goes. I think you and your husband would be happier if he gave you an allowance with which to pay expenses and spend or save as you think best. With the money he keeps for himself, he ought to have freedom, too, and be permitted to spend or save without question. Of course, if you pay the bills you ought to have the larger portion of his income. I really think that you are in the wrong in making your husband feel that he must account to you for all his actions. Such a thing is just as unfair as when a man refuses to give his wife a cent and insists on paying all the bills.

use my studying Interior Decoration. My husband says our home will be a horror if I make all the changes I've talked of."

Right there is the secret of family-opposition: "All the changes I've talked of." If you talk too much about a thing, people think you're a crank. But if you just keep your ideas to yourself and suddenly act, without talking, then you can introduce little home-changes almost before your family realizes what is happening. Don't give them time to think it over. We want to make these changes for the general good of the home, and if our families will not be sympathetic wth our ideals, then we must resort to the surprise method of introducing improvements.

All inquiries addresed to Miss Kirkman in care of the "Efficient Housekeeping" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So, if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question. Be sure to use your full name, street number, and the name of your city and state.—The Editor.

Today I am going to talk secretly to the housewife! Her family may not listen! For I am going to talk about the problem of introducing new customs in the home, of making improvements which her family may not want made. It is a fact that the average family resents changes in the home—even though those changes spell progress. Uncle John gets used to hanging his umbrella on a peg in the hall and he resents the new china umbrella holder which the housekeeper has saved so long to buy. Aunt Mary becomes accustomed to tying up her table napkin with a bit of ribbon after every meal and she dislikes the new napkin rings introduced by the housekeeper.

Brother Will hates the new salt spoons (much preferring to take a pinch of salt in his fingers, as of yore!) and Sister Helen positively refuses to use the new upholstered rocker in the living room which has taken the place of the old sag-seated arm-chair.

But perhaps the greatest opposition of all is shown by the family when the housekeeper makes changes in the meals. What a clatter is heard when white bread disappears and the more nutritious wholewheat bread is introduced! What a howl of protest arises over the health-giving salad which replaced some favorite but too-heavy luncheon dish!

Sometimes the progressive housekeeper becomes discouraged over her family's lack of understanding. "What's the use of my taking a Domestic Science course and learning to build a balanced menu," writes a Reader of the column, "if my family demand the same old meals we've always had? I can explain and explain, yet not convince them." Another Column Reader writes: "It's no

BEAUTY CHATS

FEBRUARY SKIN TROUBLES

February winds and frosts can be very hard upon the complexion if proper precautions are not taken. A dry chapped skin will become rough and unsightly. Chapped lips will grow thick and ugly; and too many colds will ruin the best complexion. Perhaps some of these suggestions will tide you over one of the most difficult months of the year.

To dry up cold sores and fever blisters make up the following simple lotion; Spirits of camphor, one ounce, sweet spirits of nitre, one ounce. Keep in a bottle and dab over the affected parts every few hours with a bit of absorbent cotton saturated with the solution.

For a skin that is so badly chapped that ordinary cold cream will not affect it make up the following; Cocoa butter one ounce; amoline, one ounce; olive oil, one ounce. Melt these three ingredients together and stir gently as they cool. Wash the skin with hot water and use this as a massage at night. It is too heavy for ordinary use, but excellent for a badly chapped skin. It can also be used if the hands are chapped. In that case it is best to smear the hands thickly after washing them, to leave the cream on and wear old gloves all night.

Chilblains we talked about a little while ago. They are one of the most annoying of February ills. But if you keep yourself well wrapped up against the damp cold, if you protect your feet and ankles when you are outdoors you should not have much trouble. Wool stockings with low shoes are much smarter than silk for cold weather for the simple reason that they are more appropriate. Nowadays woll and silk are woven together into very good looking hose. If your home is so warm that wool is uncomfortable indoors you should change to something lighter while you are in. It is no more trouble than to put on spats over silk stockings when you go out, which you should do if you cannot stand wool around your feet.

Reader:—Henna is used successfully in tinting gray streaks so they become less noticeable. If you are in good health, the loss of so much hair would indicate that your scalp is in need of treatment. A good hair tonic used several times a week, plus a daily vigorous massage of the scalp will usually be all that is needed. The condition of hair always follows that of the general health, so it is often necessary to build up the system before the condition of scalp can be improved.

Anxious, Brunette:—There is no reason for believing that bloomers are not healthy.

Mrs. C. A. R:—With hair a medium shade of brown, you can easily tint the grey with henna without changing the natural shade.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes, in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So, if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

FEDERATION HEAD TO BE GREETED

Mrs. Lillian Birmingham Is To Be House Guest at M. B. Jones Home

Mrs. Lillian Birmingham, president of the California Federation of Music clubs, is to be a house guest next week at "Bellaire," the foothill home of Mr. and Mrs. Mattison B. Jones, and will be the honored guest at the charter night program and reception of the Glendale Music club, Friday night, February 8 at the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse.

Over 200 invitations have been issued for the affair and prominent musicians from all parts of southern California will be present. These, with special guests from Glendale, and the club members, will compose one of the largest gatherings ever held in the clubhouse.

Mrs. Jones, president of the club, is not announcing the program but states that it will be a brilliant celebration.

Number Invited

Among the out-of-town guests are Mrs. Cecil Frankel, John Smallman, Frace Goldwater, Mrs. Jessie McDonald Patterson, Carl Bronson, Mrs. M. Hennion Robinson, L. E. Beheymer, Mr. Ussher, Charles Wakefield Cadman, Margaret Messer Morris, Mr. and Mrs. J. Spencer Kelly, Mrs. J. J. Carter, J. P. Paulin, Miss Freida Peycke, May McDonald Hope, Calmon Luboviski, C. C. Draa, Mrs. Hazel White, Hugo Kirchhofer.

Invitations have been issued in Glendale to heads of various organizations. Those invited are Mrs. Daniel Campbell, Mrs. Paul Hoffman, C. W. Ingledue, W. E. Hewitt A. L. Baird, George B. Karr, Peter Hanson, R. E. Johnston, Mrs. E. B. Moore, Mrs. Roy Ballgh, Mayor Spencer Robinson, Mary Ogden Ryan, Mrs. A. L. Ferguson, Mrs. Warren Roberts and V. M. Hollister.

STOCK COMPANY PLAY IS PLEASING

Charles E. Royal and His Players Deserve Credit For Clever Work

Beautiful women and beautiful clothes, a truly wonderful combination, featured last night's presentation of "Lombardi, Ltd." at the Tuesday Afternoon club theatre, when Manager Charles E. Royal of the Royal Stock company presented his big "Fashion Revue" in addition to portraying the leading role in this popular play.

Tonight will offer Glendalians their last opportunity to see Mr. Royal in the eccentric role of Tito Lombardi, proprietor of the exclusive establishment producing women's gowns de luxe. Here is a play with just the right pharmaceutical admixture of plot, suspense and heart interest to keep the typical American audience (of which Glendale's theatre-going public is no exception) on the qui vive from first curtain to last, not omitting the entr'-acts, when almost anything is likely to happen, from an announcement by that talented actor, Rodney Hildebrand, to a dialect review of pseudo-domestic troubles by W. O. Blatchford, manager of Pendroy's furniture department.

Remarkable Acting

No one who has not seen Edythe Elliott in the role of Nora Blake can possibly realize her real capacities. This is a role of exacting degree, demanding of the actress every atom of her ability. Subdued, almost negative in tone, it requires the most abundant vitality. This Miss Elliott supplies without stint, furnishing an example that might well cause the original interpreter of "Nora Blake" to applaud.

Leo Carillo played the part of Tito Lombardi in the New York production of "Lombardi, Ltd." Charles E. Royal, manager of the Royal Stock company, presents himself in this role as creditably as Carillo.

It is intensely satisfying to Glendalians to know that a local stock company can offer them cosmopolitan productions on a par with those presented on the New York stage.

Bones of men believed to have lived 80,000 years ago were recently dug up in France.

Six Japanese Families Settling in Nevada

YERINGTON, Nev., Feb. 2.—Six Japanese families recently arrived from Stockton, Cal., and are said to have been engaged to work on farms in the Mason and Smith valleys in Western Nevada.

Nevadans are opposed to Japanese workers and farmers as has been demonstrated many times recently. Continued attempts to colonize Nevada lands with Japanese families are likely to encounter strong opposition, it is said.

Month's Building Permits Of $1,029,533 Indication Of 1924 Prosperity Era

Permits issued at the office of H. C. Vandewater, municipal building superintendent, during January, 1924, exceeded by $5,197 those issued during the corresponding month of 1923.

A total of $182,100 was issued during the last day of the month, bringing the amount to $1,029,533. The increase of $5,197 does not give a correct idea of the advance made, however, as a $400,000 permit to the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital was included in the total for January, 1923. The 1924 amount did not include a permit of extremely large proportions, but is the result of a steady building activity.

Million-Dollar Start

The 1924 total is double the amount issued in 1922 and seven times those of 1921. With the first month of the year in the million-dollar class, an effort is to be made to have every month of 1924 go over the million-dollar mark, thus entitling Glendale to a Class A rating, and assure this city of a high ranking among the municipalities of California.

Great Increase Shown in Meters of City

Business Piles Up

"Our greatest problem is with the changes, which average 2,500 per month. Add to this the number of new customers registered, and you can see why we are continually adding to our staff. With a force that is adequte this month, we enter February somewhat cramped and crowded, and in March the help proves entirely inadequate to handle the situation."

The business office of the public service department of the city of Glendale is recognized throughout the southern part of California as being very efficiently conducted. Frequently city officials from neighboring municipalities visit here to be made acquainted with the methods followed. The equipment is of the latest design, both as to billing machines and addressographs.

Make Collections

A machine, electrically operated, that prints the names and addresses of all customers to be used in the billing is a great labor saver, and does away with a great amount of clerical help.

There are nine men constantly reading meters or collecting. Practically all collections are made in person, very few bills being sent out by mail. Forty books contain the names of the municipal customers, and these are worked in rotation so that the work is distributed throughout the entire month, as it is obvious that the entire reading of meters and collecting of accounts could not be done on a certain day.

Mr. McIntyre is entering upon his tenth year of city service, serving as commercial agent for three and one half years. During that time the system has been brought to a high state of efficiency.

Preview of Acacia Hills Prior to Opening Sale Of Beautiful View Tract

A preview of the new beautiful Acacia Hills—such is the plan of the Pacific Development Company to enable prospective homeseekers and investors to look over this well-known property and see the actual improvement work that is being rushed through. In this manner visitors to the tract will be offered an opportunity to view the property before the rush certain to follow the opening day sales. Though the tract will not be officially opened for public sale at this time, by this novel idea the public will be able to go over the property at any time at their convenience.

Famed throughout the nearby communities for its natural beauty, Acacia Hills, with actual work on improvements started, is fast developing into its destined place as one of the most ideal residential districts.

In Path of Expansion

Surrounded on every side by highly improved property and in the path of Glendale's remarkable expansion, Acacia Hills, because of its very location, is the center of activity. It is less than 30 minutes' ride from the center of Los Angeles shopping district, only ten minutes from Glendale, and is easily reached from any part of Southern California by spacious boulevards. This property nevertheless offers a quiet, peaceful home atmosphere.

Situated in the rolling foothills, Acacia Hills, offers an unsurpassed view of the sightly Verdugo and San Fernando Valleys, the Sierra Madre Mountains, and the Hollywood Hills. Winding roadways finely graded, circle it to the summit, while to further beautify the natural location flowering acacia trees will be planted at regular intervals throughout the tract.

Enhances Values

Well aware of the advantages offered by these sightly view lots, and appreciating full well that the big majority of homeseekers are coming more and more to look for locations where they can enjoy some of the natural beauties that have made Southern California famous, the company has done everything possible to further enhance the natural beauty of the property. To that end the tract has been replotted so as to insure the permanency of the view of every home builder. Every effort has been made to assure homeseekers that this beautiful panoramic view will never be cut off.

In the rolling foothills and far enough away from downtown districts to maintain an ideal home atmosphere, Acacia Hills, is nevertheless centrally located. Of special interest to home seekers in this locality are the exceptional educational facilities offered. Within easy walking distance of the tract are splendid grammar schools, while the new $600,000 Glendale High School, one of the finest in the southern part of the state is conveniently near.

Speeders to Contest at Ascot on Sunday

Ralph DePalma, Fred Horey and forty-odd automobile and motorcycle daredevils will begin at Ascot Speedway Sunday where they were forced by Jupiter Pluvius to leave off last Sunday.

Prior to the rain the steeply banked dirt speedway shone like a huge ebony circle, having been literally flooded with crude oil during the week. Rain descended just after Ralph DePalma had clipped off a new record for the track in a practice spin and Starter George Adair was lining up the field for the start of the Ascot Helmet race.

The objectionable dust of the opening Sunday has been entirely eliminated and the track is seconds faster to the lap than previously. The huge crowd attending the postponed race is indicative of the tremendous interest in New Ascot. Thousands of Italians were present to cheer DePalma.

Rain checks and all forms of tickets issued for last Sunday will be honored next Sunday.
